FOR SALE, the fine, substantial British-built brig TRITON (just arrived), 120 tons register, but will carry 230 tons of coals, or 250 tons general cargo. The Triton was built at Bristol (under inspection, for the Wesleyan Missionary Society), of the best English Oak, in the best and most approved manner, and is copper fastened throughout. She was thoroughly overhauled, repaired, and recoppered, in June last, in the dry dock, at Launceston, at an expense of £1100. She has a patent windlass, cooking apparatus for a large number of passengers, boats, anchors, cables, &c., &c., in capital condition. Her masts and spars are all first rate, and rigging all newly set up a short time since. Her sails are numerous and good, and she is abundantly found in stores of every description: in short, she is a thoroughly good and well-found craft, and ready to start on any voyage. Her cabin is capacious, and will accommodate twenty passengers; the steerage is also roomy, with berth fittings complete. The Triton is anchored off Miller's Point, where she may be inspected on application to Captain Budgen, on board, of whom inventories may be obtained; or of the undersigned, HENRY H BEAUCHAMP, Macquarie-place. ☞ The above vessel is admirably suited to the New Zealand trade, as she carries a very large cargo. For grain, or to go to Singapore, or China, she would prove an invaluable acquisition. 2411

HOLLOWAY'S DEPOT,
78, King-street,
Sydney, July 7, 1853.
HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.
BY the Anna Mary, now in the harbour, and by other vessels shortly to arrive, the undersigned will be in possession of a most ample stock of the above most popular remedies; and he trusts confidently, from the fresh arrangements made with Professor Holloway, that henceforth the Depôt will be so well supplied as to be ALWAYS able to execute the largest orders.
Under these circumstances the advertiser proposes to renew or to create SUB-AGENCIES in every town and district of New South Wales; and hereby invites communications from parties wishing to participate in the profits derived from the enormous sale of these valuable medicines. "Good wine needs no bush," and Holloway's world-renowned remedies require no puffing. In New South Wales it is now well understood that no "station" or gold diggers' camp is complete in its supplies without an ample stock of Holloway's Pills and Ointment. And no wonder! for the benefits conferred by these medicines are so great as almost to go beyond belief. The following statement, inserted in the Goulburn Herald of the 16th of April, is only a sample of the good effected among the community, not one in a thousand—perhaps even in ten thousand—thinking it worth while to take the trouble to return public thanks.
J. K. FEYDON,
Sole Wholesale Agent for New South Wales and Victoria.
To the Editor of the Goulburn Herald.
Dear Sir,—I wish to apprise you of a most miraculous cure that has just been effected by Holloway's Pills and Ointment on my son, a boy turned 14 years of age, who was attacked on the 5th of January last with a most dreadful pain in the chest, and a high fever. I bled and blistered him myself, but to no effect. I had then to send to Dr. Blake, of Yass, to see him, who prescribed and administered medicine to him, which gave him some temporary relief; but instead of curing the malady, it turned it to a far worse and more dangerous complaint, the dropsy. Dr. Blake pronounced him to be dropsical on the 8th of February last, and that my only resource was to send him to the Yass hospital, as he needed daily attendance both from himself and Dr. Campbell, as he was doubtful whether he would survive or not. Under these circumstances I kept my boy at home, and, being advised, I went to Yass and purchased a supply of Holloway's medicines, and began on Ash Wednesday to administer them.
I acted according to the directions given in the pamphlets that are wrapped around the medicine boxes, with the exception that I gave the pills in larger doses than is there prescribed. In the middle of Lent the boy had swelled to such an extent in his belly and feet that I thought he would actually burst, and that I should be obliged to get him tapped; but I had confidence, and persevered in my humble prayers and medicine, and, wonderful to relate, thanks to God and to Holloway's medicine, he was as well as ever on the 27th March—Easter-day. He was cured in the space of seven weeks.
Now, Sir, I think it would be unchartitable in me, towards Professor Holloway, and also towards my neighbours, not to give these facts publicity. Mr. Hurley, of the Burrowa Steam Mills, Mr. O'Brien, of the Burrowa Inn, and scores of my neighbours, can vouch for the truth of those statements, and if necessary I will go forward before any magistrate and confirm this statement on my solemn oath.
I am, Sir your obedient humble servant,
JEREMIAH HOUGH,
Teacher of the R. C. School, Burrowa

500,000 PERSONS CURED!!
BY
DR. TOWNSEND'S UNITED STATES' SARSAPARILLA.—This may be considered the best general medicine now before the public. As a purifier of the blood, in spring and summer complaints, as well as all disorders arising from general derangement of the system, or an infection of the fluids, it has probably no superior. Thus, in scrofula, erysipelas, sore eyes, quinsey, sore throat, jaundice, asthma, eruptions of the skin, rheumatism, ulcer sores, syphilitic cases, salt rheum, piles, costiveness, and all bowel complaints, scald head, and all diseases arising from the injudicious use of mercury, general debility of the whole system; also weak, sour, and irritable stomachs, dyspepsia, &c.; it is one of the most remarkable medicines in existence. It will cure the liver complaint, incipient consumption, and all affections of the lungs and liver quicker and more thoroughly than any remedy I know of. It sweeps out the whole train of coughs, colds, asthmatic and bronchial affections so completely and easily, that it astonishes and delights any person who uses it. In diseases of children, and as a general nursery medicine, it meets with unqualified success, and saves the lives of thousands. It is particularly applicable to female complaints, hence its value to married as well unmarried ladies in all their peculiar diseases.
In all diseases of the skin, where blotches, pimples, sores, and acrid eruptions develope themselves, this Sarsaparilla seems to be a perfect antidote.
This medicine improves with age, and when a hundred years old will be better than now, and can never sour or spoil. It is an invaluable Fall and Spring medicine, preventing and removing bilious diseases, jaundice, sour stomach, chills and fevers, and fevers of all kinds.
On sale, by appointment, at FOSS, SON, AND CO.'S Wholesale and Retail Drug Establishment, 313, Pitt-street North. 2696

BEAUTIFUL HAIR.—The successful results of the last half century have proved beyond question that ROWLAND'S MACASSAR OIL is endowed with singularly nourishing powers in the growth and restoration of the human hair, and when every other known specific has failed. It insinuates its balsamic properties into the pores of the head, nourishes the hair in its embryo state, accelerates its growth, cleanses it from scurf and dandriff, sustains it in maturity, and continues its possession of healthy vigour, silky softness, and luxurious redundancy, to the latest period of human life. In the growth of whiskers, eyebrows, and mustachios, it is also unfailing in its stimulative operation. When regularly applied to the head of infancy it ensures a growth of rich luxuriant hair.
Price 3s. 6d. and 7s.; or family bottles (equal to four small) at 10s. 6d.; and double that size, 21s. Caution.—On the wrapper of each bottle are the words "Rowlands' Macassar Oil," in two lines. The same are engraven on the back of the wrapper nearly 1,500 times, containing 29,028 letters. Sold by C. M. Penny, H. Mace, A. Foss, P. F. Morgan, and J. Row, chemists; Robinson and Pearson, hairdressers; Messrs. Hamburger and Sons, George-street; Richard Macdonald, 438, George-street; Mr. F. E. Sloper, Chemist and Druggist, William-street, Woolloomooloo; and wholesale by Daniel Cooper, jun., Sydney.

LULVERMACHER'S Hydro-Electric Voltaic Battery.—The undersigned has just received one of the above, and will galvanize every afternoon, as usual, after 3 o'clock. The astonishing effects of this battery, both as regards its medical application and scientific uses, has drawn forth the highest encomiums from the most clever men of the day. J. S. NORRIE, appointed agent, Pitt-street.

TO SHIPPERS AND COUNTRY STORE KEEPERS.
THE Australasian Sugar Company will in future supply every description of Raw Sugars, in addition to their usual qualities of Refined. Samples can be seen at their Offices, 557, George-street, opposite Bridge-street. A. ASHDOWN, Manager.

THREE-BUSHEL BAGS.—Just landed, (10) Ten Bales of the above. ROSSITER AND LAZARUS, George-street.

PORT MACQUARIE AND THE NEIGHBOURING DISTRICTS.
J. B. HOARE AND CO. beg to call the attention of Settlers, Storekeepers, and Residents in the above districts generally to their having opened a
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GENERAL STORE, in Horton-street, Port Macquarie, where will be found every description of goods suitable for all classes, among which may be enumerated
Grocery in all its branches
First and second flour
Drapery, slops, and millinery
Ironmongery, tinware, and cutlery
Spirits, wines, and beer
Stationery, including cheap editions of popular works
Saddlery, boots and shoes
Earthenware and glassware and a variety of miscellaneous goods too numerous to refer to in detail.
The principle on which J. B. H. and Co. intend to conduct their business, and which will invariably be adhered to, is Small Profits, Good Articles of their respective kinds, and upright dealing, which, with a stock as well selected as it is possible for ample means and good judgment in purchasing to procure, will, they trust, supersede the hitherto existing necessity of sending to the metropolis for.
The principal object that J. B. H. and Co. have in view, and which they will endeavour to accomplish, is to merit and to secure a continued and permanent support rather than immediate profits; thereby hoping to contribute to the convenience and interest of those who may patronise them, and their own ultimate success.
The want of a good Store in these districts, where goods suitable to the requirements of every class could be procured at reasonable prices, it is generally allowed, has been long felt; and the above beg to assure those who may be desirous of encouraging them, that no effort will be wanting on their part to render their stock as well assorted in all the requisites for general use, and at as low prices as they could purchase in Sydney, with the expense of freight only added.
In conclusion, J. B. H. and Co. beg to solicit an inspection of their stock, a comparison of the prices, and a trial of the goods, which is the only true test of cheapness, or rather of good value; feeling confident that their desire to merit support will be fully responded to by a discerning public.

M'LEAY RIVER AND NEW ENGLAND DISTRICTS.
J. B. HOARE and CO. beg to inform settlers and storekeepers in the above districts that they have taken those premises opposite "Phillips's New Inn," PORT MACQUARIE,
which will be opened in a few days as a GENERAL STORE,
when they hope by a strict adherence to low prices, and a due regard to the wants and wishes of their customers, to merit a share of public patronage. They would also observe, that, having taken advantage of the present temporary depression in the wholesale market, their stock has been purchased at exceedingly low rates, of which circumstance they are determined to give the public the benefit.

HANKS AND LLOYD,
Original purveyors of the Concentrated TURKEY COFFEE.
THIS Coffee has met with a remarkable, and rapidly increasing sale. It is roasted upon a peculiar and improved principle, known only to the proprietors, ground immediately after it is roasted, and packed in canisters to suit purchasers, of 3, 7, 11, and 15 lbs. each, impervious to air, by which means it remains uninjured by the atmosphere, and for a lengthened period retains in the highest degree its full fragrant freshness.
To country storekeepers and parties leaving for the diggings it will be found a great acquisition.

THE many difficulties and annoyances attending the opening of an extensive establishment of this nature having been at length overcome, the proprietors feel it a duty they owe to the public and to themselves, to take advantage of the earliest opportunity afforded them of announcing the completion of their arrangements, and of being now in a position to do justice to orders of any extent or variety in the general provision trade, which, from the insufficiency of their storage ar

DESTITUTE CHILDREN.
No. 6.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—I showed in my last letter that the magistrates of Warwick, who had conducted an asylum for the reformation of juvenile offenders since 1818, stated in a memorial to the Secretary of State for the Home Department their conviction that "it is not only a national duty, but also a clear case of political expediency and political economy, to make provision for the reformation of juvenile offenders." I also submitted to the notice of your readers the petition of the magistrates of Liverpool to both Houses of Parliament, in which they draw a comparison between a gaol and a reformatory institution, and show that while a juvenile offender can be reformed for £25, the expense of prosecuting and preparing a youth for transportation, costs upwards of £100, or four times the expense of reforming him and making him an useful member of society. I ought, in justice to the magistrates and the corporation of Liverpool, to state that, they are not indifferent to the proper instruction of their prisoners, as they have excellent teachers for the schools in their gaol, and a chaplain who is fully alive to the importance of his charge. In a letter addressed by the Rev. J. Carter, chaplain of the Liverpool gaol, to the Mayor and Town Council, dated April 25th, 1850, it is stated that "The number of boys now in custody is 115, of girls, 39; of these a very large majority have been brought into their present circumstances through parental neglect or failure of parental influence, and it must be evident that neither effort of mine nor any penal appliances can ever counteract the consequences of these defects, aggravated as they are now by the contamination of evil association. Hence the expense of each succeeding imprisonment, be it greater or less, which fails of its object, is so much thrown away." Here the reverend gentleman unhesitatingly affirms that no effort on his part, or any penal appliances which can be adopted, can do any good. A lady who has devoted much of her time to the cause of juvenile offenders says, after a visit to the girls' school of the Liverpool gaol, "The schoolmistress seemed one who, if any one could, would infuse some intellectual life into her unfortunate charge; she had entered on the work from an earnest desire to do some good to those poor children, but she felt a constant sense of disappointment weigh on her spirits!" It is impossible to find a judge or a criminal prosecutor who will say that the confining of juveniles in gaols will be attended with good consequences. Two boys, of 10 or 12 years of age, were tried a few days ago at the Criminal Court at Darlinghurst—they had stated to the police, when apprehended, all the circumstances connected with their offence—one of them did not seem to understand the question guilty or not guilty, when put to him, but he was prompted to say not guilty, and after a fair trial his guilt was established. The judge evidently felt the disagreeable situation in which he was placed. He was expected to admonish as well as to sentence the culprits. A judge can never make himself understood by juvenile offenders. There is not a juvenile in any prison who can give any account of what the judge said to him when at the bar. Mr. M'Neil Caird, Procurator Fiscal of Wigtonshire, Scotland, says, "A creature, six or seven years old, was recently brought up for housebreaking. Its age manifestly put punishment out of the question, and the only practical resource left to the administrators of the law was a reprimand from the judge. The crowded court was eager to catch a glimpse of the prisoner, who was elevated on a table to bring him into view. With this hopeful subject the judge had to deal; and after feeling his way with all the tact and patience for which he is distinguished, and anxious to test the little culprit's ideas of a court of judicature, he put the question, "Do you know that I am a judge?" The shrill, simple, Scottish answer, "What's that?" electrified the court, upset its gravity, and showed all too clearly the hopelessness of dealing effectually with such a creature in the imposing forms of law. But it was not all a mockery; for thus was tried and found wanting the society of which that child was an outcast, and there was written in the record of a higher tribunal, "Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it not to me." Returning, however, again to the children tried at Darlinghurst, I should state that solitary confinement for a given period is part of their punishment. Many people suppose that this affords them time for reflection, but there are few, if any, juvenile offenders who devote this period to reflection on their past offences, or decide as to their future course. They leave the gaol without any definite plan or object in view. On entering the cell of a well-regulated prison, in which a boy was in solitary confinement, my attention was drawn to his slate, on which there was a good deal of writing, and a great number of figures. The writing was, "The number of chapters in the Old Testament, followed by the exact number; the number of chapters in the New Testament stated equally correctly; the number of leaves in the Old Testament; the number of leaves in the New Testament." On questioning the boy as to how he made out the number of chapters to be as he had stated, he said he had commenced at the beginning and counted to a hundred which he noted down, and commenced counting till he made another hundred, and the hundreds he had marked down on his slate. In a similar manner he had counted the leaves of his Bible, which he showed me, and assured me that I would find that he was correct. He would have counted the chapters and leaves of any other book that might have been put into his cell, as he could not be idle, and I mention this case merely to show that children derive no advantage from solitary confinement. It is unfair to these children to come to a conclusion respecting their criminality till all the circumstances in which they have been placed are taken into consideration. Serjeant Adams stated before the Select Committee of the House of Lords on Juvenile Offenders, "That of the one hundred prisoners whom he has to try every fortnight, from 16 to 40 are boys; some even of the age of seven, a few of eight, and a great number of nine and upwards. Of these children the offences are for the most part of a pilfering description, to which the young children are tempted by older persons. A large proportion are wholly and entirely without friends and relations of any kind; others have profligate parents who neglect them; another class have step fathers and step-mothers, who abuse and ill-treat them; and almost all are quite uninstructed in religious, moral, and social duties. I should say the evil is more deeply seated than in the natural disposition of the children themselves. I do not think they are naturally worse than other children; but that these offences spring from the want of proper moral and religious education, and in the want of proper friends to attend to them!" These children would, without doubt, be useful members of society if they were properly educated, and trained to habits of industry. If any of your readers have visited a gaol and conversed with a boy on the eve of his dismissal, though he be three or four hundred miles from the place to which he belongs, he is resolved to revisit that place; he knows nothing of any of his relations, he is without money, but he is perfectly happy, though he knows that he will have to sleep under hedges by night, and seek his food during the day. Children who can act in this way would be useful members of society if properly trained; but they are sadly neglected. From our police report of the past week it appears that a number of children sleep in out-houses. Nothing can be gained by bringing such children before the magistrates, and committing them for a short period to gaol. Their parents, or society, are in fault, by the situation in which they are placed. The Rev. Mr. Clay, in speaking of such children, says, "Truly, while we endeavour to rescue such pitiable young objects from their parents' cruelty, and bad example, something must be done to make the parents themselves sensibly—if not painfully and penally—alive to the conviction that society ought not to—and will not—submit to the consequences of their conduct; or rather, putting consequences out of the question, will no longer suffer such conduct to escape its due reward." This colony endows, in the most liberal manner, an University for the benefit of the children of the wealthy; it has two educational boards intended to benefit the children of the middle classes; but where is there any institution except the gaol for the destitute children? There is to be sure an institution at Paddington, but that is only for one particular class of children, and it can not receive one-third of that class—it is besides supported by voluntary subscriptions, and though the subscription list is creditable to the citizens, still it is a fluctuating mode of support. A general tax for the support of a reformatory institution into which all destitute children and juvenile offenders could be received and properly trained would be beneficial not merely to the children but to the colony. If the parents of the children could be found they should be made to contribute to the support of their children. Even, however, if the parents could not be found, the expense of these children in a reformatory institution would not be one-fourth of what it is in gaol; and who, it may be asked, would offer any opposition to such a measure?

I am, Sir, yours truly,

L.

Sydney, October 15.

THE DEFENCES OF SYDNEY HARBOUR.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—1. No privateers would venture into Sydney Harbour to bombard the city, or claim hostages. The idea is farcical! Their armaments would not be heavy enough, nor their crews strong enough. But privateers would dodge the coast, and thus blockade the harbour, capturing all vessels venturing in or out.

2. Hence the necessity of British cruizers to be stationed off the coast, Port Jackson being the rendezvous.

3. All permanent fortifications in Sydney Harbour would be enormously expensive, and equally useless. An invasion would be effected by a large steam flotilla, with heavy frigates. The former by their locomotive powers passing out of reach of batteries in five minutes; whilst the heavy broadsides of the frigates would be equal to those of batteries; and hence the levée of the first onslaught would be left in smoke.

4. The danger is imminent; the delay of sending home for a "block ship" preposterous. The few guns at the present batteries, if distributed at batteries erected at the entrance of the harbour would very soon be cleared by a broadside or two from an invading foe; and the city and its gold doomed to be sacked.

5. The defence, and the only defence for Sydney harbour is—block ships; three to be moored in the western channel, and two in the eastern channel, making a continuous and broad front across the harbour, at the Sow and Pigs, so moored, head and stern, by chains, for action, as to be a perfect boom; but to swing at other times with the tide, to prevent obstruction. These vessels to be chartered from the shipowners in Sydney, and armed with the present battery guns, with four or six each, according to their capabilities of strength and burthen. Furthermore, gunboats and steamers belonging to the port should be armed in like proportion, and have their assigned stations, which nautical men can pick out.

6. A brigade, composed of the men in the Water Police, Custom House, and other government services, together with the watermen in the harbour, should be immediately formed and trained—to sword, pike, and gun exercise—in similar manner and pay as the dockyard brigades at home are. The possibility is that 400 hands can be so mustered. This brigade should be under the command of the Water Police Magistrate; who, instead of being a lawyer or barrister, should be a regular built sailor, and a gentleman, numbers of whom can be found in port, so qualified, notwithstanding the assertion in the Legislative Council to the contrary.

7. Without going into expenses, which could be easily calculated, and with tolerable accuracy, (a little nearer the mark than that a steam block ship would cost £150,000! Why, the Duke of Wellington does not cost this sum!) the materials of defence are only suggested.

8. To be gathered from these suggestions:—A barrier to prevent the progress up the harbour, even of steamers; and then the necessity and advantage of making quick work of it, by boarding and carrying; and the troops in barracks, no doubt, would be happy to join in the melée.

Monday, October 3.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—Looking over your issue of yesterday's date, I find a letter of date 10th instant, signed "An Inhabitant," asking whether you think the police horses properly employed when running races; and adding, on the race course adjacent to this town, one of them ran a race on Wednesday last, and won the sum of ten shillings.

Upon making enquiries (being absent myself in Sydney the previous Monday and Tuesday), I find the police horses had not been out of the police paddock on that day.

I wish it to be known that if the author of the above letter reported to me any irregularity of any member of the police force of this district, that it would be immediately brought under the notice of the bench of magistrates.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.,

W. HOBBS, Chief Constable.

SWEEPING PENALTY.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—There is in St. Petersburg an old custom requiring every person taken up for being drunk, male or female, to sweep the streets the next day for a certain number of hours. Let this penalty be enforced in Sydney, and we shall at all events have clean streets, if morals are not improved.

I am, Sir, yours obediently,

A RAILROAD IN THE HOLY LAND.

Over the billows and over the brine,
Over the water to Palestine!
Am I awake, or do I dream?
Over the ocean to Syria by steam!
My say is south, by this right hand,
A steamer brave
Is on the wave
Bound positively for the Holy Land!
Godfrey of Bouloigne, and thou
Richard, lion-hearted king!
Candidly inform us, now,
Did you ever?
No; you never
Could have fancied such a thing!
Never such vociferations
Entered your imaginations,
As the ensuing:
——— "Ease her! stop her!"
"Any gentleman for Joppa?"
"Massus, Massus!" "Ticket, please, sir?"
"Tyre or Sidon?" "Stop her! Ease her!"
"Jerusalem, hem, hem!"—"Shar! Shar!"
"Do you go on to Egypt, sir?
"Captain, is this the land of Pharoah?"
"Now look alive there! Who's for Cairo?"
"Back her! stand clear! I say, old fire;
What gent or lady's for the Nile
Or Pyramids?" "Thebes, Thebes, sir—steady!"
"Now, where's that party for Rogodit?"
Pilgrims, holy Redeemer knights,
Had you ever the least idea,
Even in your wildest flights,
Of a steam trip to Judea?
What next marvel Time will show
It is difficult to say—
"Omnibus to Jericho,
Only sixpence! all the way!"
Cabs in Jerusalem may ply;
'Tis not an unlikely tale;
And from Dan the tourist hie

NAVAL DISCIPLINE.

(From the United States' Gazette, July 2.)

It has been found necessary to hold another Naval Court-Martial, the full particulars of which, with the sentence, will be found elsewhere recorded in our columns. Those who have of late, by their writings, been sapping the foundations of good discipline, have this man's crime, and it may be much more yet, to answer for. A more deliberate case of gross mutiny we have not had to mention since stating that of a sober ruffian, holding the rating of a petty officer, knocking down a sentry on the quarter-deck of a British man-of-war. The more recent case is that of a man coolly and deliberately disobeying reiterated lawful order, and ultimately striking his Serjeant for reporting him to his superiors.

If such doings are tolerated, it will soon be impossible for anything like order to be preserved, much less can difficult services be performed, on board a ship-of-war. Moral restraint may do a great deal with well-disposed men, but it is the height of folly to preach morals to those whose previous career and habits have steeled them against any such influences. We never met with a naval officer wild enough to suppose that anything short of corporal infliction or solitary imprisonment (which to many would be even more intolerable and cruel) would suffice as a last resort, or as a resource on any great emergency. The indiscreet use of corporal punishment forms the real objection. It is the punishment of a man of general good conduct for a trivial offence that disgusts hundreds, and which earns for those who direct it the name of tyrant. We have invariably condemned the abuse of this power, and can justly claim to be among the first and most energetic to endeavour to set bounds to such unwise stretches of authority. The annexed letter, though addressed to a contemporary, is too good to escape our notice. It asked for an exposition of our own views, we should give them in very much the same terms; and we have little doubt that were Captain Fitzroy's recommendations for manning the navy adopted, the most beneficial results would accrue.

To the Editor of the Morning Herald.

SIR,—I am confident that your sincere wish to promote views and opinions which you believe to be patriotic has originated the exertions made lately by the Morning Herald with reference to corporal punishment in her Majesty's Navy; and I rely on your candour and liberality to permit this letter to appear in your columns, because, although differing from you in some degree as to the means to be employed, my ultimate objection is similar to your own, and there is no difference in our hatred of corporal punishment.

I have read, with considerable anxiety, all the letters and articles on this important subject in your columns, and as I feel convinced that their tendency may be thought to have discouraged seamen from entering the public service of their native country, and may have caused an unfavourable impression as to the Navy, and Naval officers, I am induced to venture, not anonymously, to submit a few remarks for your consideration, and, if permitted, to that of some of your readers.

That hundreds of active, young, and daring men on board a ship (a magazine of combustibles, where fire is continually risked) require energetic control, is a mere truism; but to the uninitiated it is not so plain how much the lives of all on board may often depend on one man's obedience, attention, or sobriety. This, however, is the fact, even when moored in harbour; but when under weigh, near the land or other ships, performing any evolution or in action, how greatly is the importance of even individual conduct increased. At night, in the dark, aloft or below, while shortening sail or lowering a boat—or, in short, during any one of the numerous night duties, even more than those of the day, when every one's actions are visible—of how much consequence are strict sobriety and individual obedience to order.

How wide is the difference in this point of view (one, perhaps, not sufficiently remarked in general) between sailors and soldiers. The seaman acts alone—often independently—in many of his duties, and he frequently has the lives of others in his own hands, as when lowering a boat or spar, heving the lead, &c. The soldier acts mechanically, and seldom alone. Excepting on outpost or skirmishing duties, the soldier has small occasion for the mental as well as bodily activity that a seaman always should possess, and he never holds lives in his hands by a single rope.

With reference to the magazines of gunpowder, the live shells, the spirits, and other combustibles crowded on a ship, pray what precautions are always taken by Artillery on land in repelling their enemies, to consider the space they think necessary around such dangerous materials compared with that attainable on board ship, especially a steamship, and then allow me to ask whether the Navy can be made efficient without a discipline at least as strictly enforced as that of the Army, where it has not yet been found practicable to dispense entirely with the lash.

Under existing circumstances almost every Naval Officer who has commanded a ship of war will confess, I believe, in the opinion, that for due restraint of the few bad characters or reckless spirits found in all crews the power of inflicting corporal punishment must be maintained, however restricted it is sought, as at present, or by any future arrangement analogous to Regimental Courts-Martial. But the circumstances now existing might be very soon changed so much as to enable Commanding Officers to maintain most efficient discipline, without having recourse to their most painful of all duties—ordering and witnessing corporal punishment.

If your non-professional readers could realise the feelings with which most officers go through this sometimes indispensable trial, they would understand the unspeakable relief it would be to those men (as humane and as feeling as their brother of the law or the church) could they, without neglecting their duty—without betraying their trust—without compromising their responsibility for the lives of their crew, the safety of their ship, and the honour of their flag—could they avoid the infliction of bodily chastisement.

The change referred to might be effected chiefly by raising the pay and improving the condition of the seamen in the Royal Navy so much as to make it, in all respects, preferable to mercantile employment.

Under such conditions, stoppage of pay, loss of time for pension, and ultimately, discharge from the service, might have sufficient effect to enable officers to maintain due discipline in all ordinary circumstances during peace. In war, hasher and more summary means of compulsion might, no doubt, be unavoidable on board ship, occasionally, even as it is necessary to employ a Provost-Marshal sometimes with an army.

The argument against raising your man-of-war's men's wages, often advanced by parties more or less interested in the merchant service, and afraid of a possible loss, however unfoundedly, seems, if I may presume to say so, totally fallacious. The Navy requires a certain number of men—say 40,000. There are some hundred thousand—say (only) 300,000—British Seamen, whose livelihood usually depends on employment afloat. Whether the public pay £2, £3, or £4, a month for each of these 40,000 men, is no more than number will be employed by Government, and in voting that number the country intends to employ them all. The large remainder, 260,000, must depend for their wages on the demand of the mercantile marine, utterly irrespective of the Royal Navy, for which the number is very limited.

There is every reason why the Queen's service—on behalf of the public welfare—should be made preferable to that of any private individual or of any company; and that a substantial increase of present pay is now the chief thing wanting to make it so, there is a unanimous opinion among those on whose feeling and choice depend the voluntary manning of our ships, and who have never themselves complained of the general discipline of the British Navy.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
ROBERT FITZROY, Captain R.N., 1834.

Athenæum, June 25.

CELESTIAL LOVE.

(From Chambers's Edinburgh Journal.)

In the Celestial Empire, love-matters are managed by a confidant, or go-between, and the billets-doux written to one another by the papas. At Amoy, a marriage was recently concluded between the respectable houses of Tan and O; on which occasion the following epistles, copied from the Panama Herald, passed between the two old gentlemen:—

From Papa Tan:—"The ashamed younger brother, surnamed Tan, named Su, with washed head makes obeisance, and writes this letter to the greatly virtuous and honourable gentleman whose surname is O, old teacher, great man, and presents it at the foot of the gallery. At this season of the year the satin curtains are enveloped in mist, reflecting the beauty of the river and hills, in the fields of the blue gem are planted rows of willows close together, arranging and diffusing the commencement of genial influences, and consequently adding to the good of the old year.

"I duly reverence your lofty door. The guest of the Sue country descends from a good stock, the origin of the female of the Hai country likewise (is so too). You have received their transforming influences, resembling the great effects produced by rain, much more you, my honourable nearly-related uncle, your good qualities are of a very rare order. I, the mean one, am ashamed of myself, just as rotten wood is in the presence of aromatic herbs. I now receive your indulgence inasmuch as you have listened to the words of the match-maker, and given Miss S. in marriage to the mean one's eldest son, named Kang; your assenting to it is worth more to me than a thousand pieces of gold. The marriage business will be conducted according to the six rules of propriety, and I will reverently announce the business to my ancestors with presents of gems and silks. I will arrange the things received in your basket, so that all who tread the threshold of my door may enjoy them. From this time forward the two surnames will be united, and I trust the union will be a felicitous one, and last for hundred years, and realise the delight experienced by the union of the two countries Chin and Chin. I hope that your honourable benevolence and consideration will defend me unceasingly. At present the dragon flies in Sia Hai term, the first month, lucky day. I, Mr. Su, bow respectfully. Light before."

From Papa O:—"The younger brother surnamed O, named Fus, of the family to be related by marriage, washes his head clean, knocks his head and bows, and writes this marriage letter in reply to the far-famed and virtuous gentleman surnamed Tan, the venerable teacher and great man who manages this business. At this season the heart of the plum-blossom is increasingly white; at the beginning of the first month it opens its petals. The eyebrows of the willow shoot out their green, when shaken by the wind it displays its glory, and grows luxuriantly into five generations. 'Tis matter for congratulation the union of 100 years. I reverence your lofty gate. The prognostic is good, also the divination of the lucky bird. The stars are bright, and the dragons meet together. In every succeeding dynasty office will be held, and for many a generation official vestments will be worn—not only those of your family surname will enjoy all the afore-mentioned felicity—more especially will your honourable gentlemen who possess abilities great and deep, whose manners are dignified and pure. I, the foolish one, am ashamed of my diminutiveness. I for a long time have desired your dragon powers, now you have not looked down upon me with contempt, but have entertained the statements of the match-maker, and agree with Mr. Kang to be united to my despicable daughter. We all wish the girl to have her hair dressed, and the young man to put on his cap of manhood. The peach flowers just now look beautiful, the red plum also looks gay. I praise your son, who is like a fairy horse who can cross over through water, and is able to ride upon the wind and waves; but my tiny daughter is like a green window and a feeble plant, and is not worthy of becoming the subject of verse.

"Now I reverently bow to your good words, and make use of them to display your good breeding. Now I hope your honourable benevolence will always remember me without end. Now the dragon flies in the Sin Hai term, first month, lucky day. Mr. Tu makes obeisance. May the future be prosperous!"

In external appearance, these letters, as we learn from the Panama paper, are equally curious:—"Each of them is about the size of one of the Citizen's pages, and consists of a rich frame composed of something like our paper mache, inside of which is artistically folded a scroll of richly-tinted crimson paper, studded with the golden letters that convey the words of love and modesty. The outer surface is likewise emblazoned with a quantity of raised work, representing robes of honour, tails of distinction, the smallest of all small shoes, peacock's feathers, and a variety of other equally tasteful designs, which are supposed to be emblematic of the vast accession to the wealth and honour of both contracting houses, that may be expected to flow from the union of the gallant Sa Tan, junior, and the accomplished Miss Tu O."

DIPLOMACY.

(From Dickens' Household Words.)

You have been quarrelling in England a good deal lately with your Diplomatic Establishment. Let me bottle up the essence of a conversation I had on this subject with my excellent friend the Chevalier Stanislaus d'Aloe (fourth unpaid Dutch attaché at the Court of the Czar), on the eve of our visit to Vesuvius:—

To begin then, was the Chevalier's first observation, the secrecy and hocus-pocus of diplomacy should be put an end to. A foreign mission, indeed, rightly understood, should be, let me respectfully suggest, a regular school and assembling-place of enlightened travellers. Let your youth see something of other countries besides their museums and picture galleries. Let them be brought into contact with the living spirit of the age they live in, and let older people judge of passing events for themselves.

True. We do not want, I remarked, in the nineteenth century, and in Great Britain, a Minister or a Government to get information on grave affairs, and to keep it to themselves. The public wish to know something about it also, that we may see with our own eyes if a statesman be right or wrong in what he is about, in order that we may stop him if he do mischief. The vital interests of a great country like ours are not to be committed blindly to any man, or any set of men; especially when we have daily evidence of the glaring and laughable incapacity of certain English ministers at certain despotic and, therefore difficult, foreign courts. Any man who is doing what he ought to do, has nothing to fear from publicity. It is only incompetent diplomatists who are the natural advocates of silence.

It is all very well to come to us with a grave face, and say we, the public, are not competent to judge of this or that; that we are the unreasoning multitude, and that such subjects are above our capacities. This may be an excellent line of argument for the Marquis of Fiddlededee and his friend Lord Loggerhead; but depend upon it, there is not much in politics worth knowing at all, that a sensible man may not a quire with moderate study and observation. Gxenstiern never said a truer thing than when he let us into the secret of how little wisdom it takes to govern the world. All other secrets are mere moonshine and water when we know this.

I am very much afraid that a more completely inexpable body of men (taken en masse) do not exist than our diplomatic servants. Of course there are some striking and remarkable exceptions; but perhaps it would not be going too far to say, that very few of them could ask for a penny in three languages, as a beggar at Naples boasted to me yesterday he could do—and did. As for the political research of most of the junior branches of the service, it commences with 1830; part of what has occurred since, they know or have learned from gossip here and there: but the past, that great signpost to the future, is a mystery to them.

The whole thing is wrong. Promotion is made altogether a question of favour and intrigue. A man of mere ability and zeal in his calling has no more chance of a vancement than a sincere and enlightened Christian clergyman has in the Church; and a coronet stands for a great deal too much. So many things combine to spoil the education of a mere lord, that he must be a very wise man indeed, if he is not a very foolish one. He has every possible temptation to take him away from business to pleasure; so that by and bye he gets ruined, and then is appointed to a situation he cannot and will not fill as it ought to be filled.

This coronet question, however, is a very delicate and difficult one to deal with when regarded in reference to English coronets abroad. Out of certain circles in England, and those not the best, a Marquis is no more than a manufacturer, and just stands for what he is worth, be that what it may. Once cross the Channel, however, the business changes altogether, and we must remember that in dealing with our foreign services, we have to legislate for both parties—British and foreign. In Germany, in Spain and Italy, and even in America, a title goes a great way, and a man with a sounding name has a certain prestige and often an actual influence which an untitled man has not. Besides, we cannot keep these great Lilliputians out of one of our public services; and I have just shown that we ought not, for our own interests, to do so, if we could. All that remains, therefore, is to render them harmless.

Let your Great Nobody have his mission at Tombucto; let it form part of his instructions that he shall receive upon fixed days such travellers of honour and repute from his own nation as chance to be in the capital where he lives, that they may hear, see, and know what is going on. Let him entertain and cultivate the people to whom he is accredited. You do not give him his salary to clear off his debts, or to portion his daughter, or to get his son out of scrapes, or to hoard up. You give it him for the benefit of the public service; and in that it should be spent, honestly, scrupulously, to the last farthing. And would it not be well in sending out a new King Log to a foreign court, to say to him, "Your lordship will find Mr. Brown (who is to be your secretary) already at Tombucto, on your arrival. He is a clever, hard-working man, who knows the country thoroughly, and we recommend you to pay attention to what he says. In case of anything going wrong, we shall not look to you; fiddle and bow, and receive and dine away just as much as you like; we shall look to him—unless you thwart him. You may consider yourself, according to a polite fiction, as the king who can do no wrong; and we shall dismiss Mr. Brown without mercy, in case of misconduct or of the interests of this country being neglected!" You would then have the advantage of Lord Fiddled dee's rank and Mr. Brown's ability together. Fiddledeelee's rank really has its advantage in the present state of cringing and lord-reverence abroad; whether this may last long or not, is beside the question under discussion.

For the rest, and as to the complaints of individuals against foreign Governments, I say frankly, that nine times out of ten you in England are hopelessly in the wrong. Your true-bred Britain, indeed, generally is in the wrong in a dispute. He is not a linguist; he gets hot and excited; he blusters, bullies, commits himself, is corrected, and so little minds eating his words when he finds himself in the wrong, that he sometimes seems to do so with a relish. This is the history of nine cases out of ten. Besides it should never be forgotten by any complainant, however excited, that his representative has only the power of making representations; he cannot coerce a foreign Government. He is placed in the position he fills, partly to keep up friendly relations as long as possible; and while good-humoured endeavours to obtain redress have the faintest chance of success it would be in the highest degree culpable in him to try others. The complainant has also very likely just proved for himself the value of blustering.

On one other subject, also, I may perhaps venture to speak; and I speak decidedly. No sensible, prudent man of the world need ever get into a scrape in foreign countries. He will quietly, and without remark, fulfil all necessary regulations, he will find his way agreeable enough. If on the contrary, he goes about wrangling and squabbling with everybody, and that too often in words of which he does not know the precise and local meaning, he will infallibly come to grief. A guest among strangers—this is his position, and he should never forget it. If he makes the house which has received him uncomfortable, the master has a right to turn him out of it. It may not be courteous or hospitable always to do so; but it is the law, and no foreign envoy can alter it. Three golden rules to avoid botheration, are—Keep quiet; don't thrust yourself forward; be civil, and answer questions readily and good-humouredly, however they may be put.

No one ought ever to be appointed to a diplomatic post, however humble, who cannot speak the language of the country he is going to. He is completely useless if in ignorance of it; but as a person cannot spend his life in learning languages that may soon cease to be required of him, and in forgetting them in countries where they are not spoken, let every person newly appointed have six months to prepare himself, before going to post; and, if he can pass an examination in the language to be acquired earlier, so much the better for him. To move our diplomatic servants also frequently has its advantage, and costs nothing. It is impossible to understand thoroughly any one country without having a general knowledge of others, and I think it would be wise never to allow any one, not belonging to some special branch of the service, to remain at the same post longer than three years. If he stay longer he is apt to change from a man to a thing, and to grow brimful of rules, orders, regulations, etiquette, and local prejudices. Seeing all things through a false and single medium, all things necessarily appear to him all of one colour.

Any other examination than that of languages, it would be injudicious I think, to require. Diplomacy is a service in which we do not want book-worms, but men of the world, and the one are seldom the other. A man soon acquires that species of reputation among those who have to deal with him, which points him out as fit or unfit for important duties; and unluckily you cannot make promotion here quite regular without doing a silly thing. It should depend upon the capacity, activity, talent, and zeal of the individual. The interests of a country should not be confided to a dunce because he is growing grey.

One word more. Have you observed that each of the French missions has a good engineer and draughtsman attached to it; and can you tell me why? At any rate we might take the hint from them. It would make some new appointments!

AN INDIAN BEAUTY.—While lying at anchor this day, two female Indians came off from the shore in a beautiful bark canoe. It was so light and buoyant that it sat like a gull on the water, and was truly a fine specimen of exquisite workmanship. The youngest of these females was a fine model of feminine simplicitity and artless beauty; her long black hair was gracefully braided; in front, it was parted sufficiently to show a light-brown forehead, with jet black eyes and regular features, that might serve as a model for a sculptor to imitate the perfection of the human form. Her dress was made close around the waist, and so arranged as to show a full bust; and thus, with close, ornamented pantaloons, and high-wrought moccasions, was gracefully seated, at her ease, this simple child of nature. We may call her a savage, and sneer at her want of elegance and taste; but has she no charms to kindle the flame of love to the human bosom? A fine lady, it is true, may excel her in the gaudy decorated drawing-room; but can she balance herself with perfect ease, confidence, and grace, in this exquisite boat, that two poundsweight would overturn in unskilful hands? can she manage the frail canoe, and force it through the water with an arrow's speed—anon let it gently float like a swan on its peaceful bosom? To complete the picture, and add a new charm to the scene, was their gentle deportment. When I invited them on board, they modestly declined, but spread out before them a variety of little articles of their own production, many of which were prettily made, and gracefully displayed with slight little party-coloured baskets, slippers, and other ornamental trifles, exquisitely wrought and tastefully exhibited. There was no importunity on their part to induce me to purchase; they patiently waited my pleasure to take what I desired, and leave the rest. I was so captivated with these children of the forest, that I purchased their whole stock, asking but one simple question: "How much do the whole of these beautiful articles amount to?"—Coggeshall's Series of Voyages.

WESTMINSTER IMPROVEMENTS.—Yesterday the committees of the House of Lords, of which the Earl of Wicklow was chairman, passed the Bill proposed for the purpose of extending the Westminster improvements, the object being to carry out the formation of Secondary-street in connexion with Victoria-street, already opened, and to enable the Westminster improvement commissioners to obtain possession of the workhouse and lands required for that purpose. The commissioners, up to November, 1849, had expended in these improvements £125,000, but had not yet expended the £20,000 required for the construction of Secondary-street. The commissioners propose to improve the sanitary condition of the parishes of St. Margaret and St. John by removing a mass of houses in various streets, lanes, and passages adjoining Victoria-street, and to erect a better class of houses in their stead, on building leases, the houses to be occupied in distinct sets of apartments, the apartments to be rated as separate tenements. The commissioner set forth that it will afford great accommodation to the public if our approach to Victoria-street is widened through the Broad Sanctuary, and a communication opened from Victoria-street to Palace-yard. They also propose that a part of Castle-lane shall be widened and improved, and a communication formed between Horseferry-road and Westminster Bridewell; also for Francis-street to be widened and improved, and continued into the Vauxhall bridge road and Victoria-street, with a road contiguous to part of the walls of Westminster Bridewell. The power for the compulsory purchases of land is limited to two years from the passing of the Act. Portions of Parliament-square gardens and of the churchyard of St. Margaret are to be laid open in continuation of Victoria-street to opposite the new Houses of Parliament and Secondary-street. It is to be completed by July, 1855, at a cost of £50,000.—Morning Chronicle.

Bate; 4 bales drapery, Ray, Glaister, and Co.; 7 packages, Smith, Brothers, and Co.; 6 packages hardware, Levicks and Piper.

SHIPS' MAILS.

FOR LONDON.—By the Maitland and Alert, this evening, at 6.

FOR CEYLON.—By the John Patchett, this evening, at 6.

FOR HOBART TOWN.—By the Emma, this day, at noon.

FOR CALCUTTA.—By the Ann Mary, this evening, at 6.

THE STEAMER SIR JOHN HARVEY.—It will be seen by our advertising columns that this powerful vessel will commence running between this port and Melbourne on Tuesday next, under the command of Captain Mallier, formerly of the Pettercairn. She is now the joint property of that gentleman, Messrs. Buyers and Learmonth, and Messrs. W. and J. Donaldson, of Newcastle, by whom she was purchased for the sum of £17,500. Nearly another five hundred has been laid out in improving the passenger accommodations, increasing both light and ventilation by additional skylights and ports, and in rendering her replete with every comfort and convenience. Her steaming qualities have, during two trial trips been most satisfactorily tested, and it is confidently expected she will perform her trips with great regularity. The Sir John Harvey is about twelve months old, and for six months was employed running between Boston and Halifax (a coast notorious for its heavy weather) in which trade she was never a day behind her time.

ERRATUM.—In the arrival of the Scotia, in yesterday's publication, the word Melbourne was substituted for Wellington by an error of the compositor.

The Alert, for London, has finished her loading, and as all the crew are complete, Captain Stewart expects to sail positively to-morrow.

The Royal Saxon and Versailles were anchored at the Heads yesterday evening, at sunset.

In the clearance per Maitland, for London, the names of Mrs. Stuart and Mr. Macpherson were omitted.

WATER POLICE OFFICE.—Yesterday, Mr. T. Cooper, chief officer of the ship Defence, appeared before the Water Police Magistrate and Mr. George Thornton, to answer a charge of assault preferred against him by Anthony Woods, the cook of the said vessel. Mr. Martin appeared for the defendant. The matter was a very trumpery one, arising out of the cook asking for some curry powder for the seamen's mess, and the chief officer striking him for what he conceived to be impudence. The Bench fined the defendant 10s., with 7s. costs.

BALCOMBE, SUSSEX.—This little place was all alive on Monday, the 18th April, in consequence of the marriage of Miss E. Webber, only daughter of Mr. John Webber, merchant, to Mr. W. Willard, at Brighton Old Church. Miss Webber is the lady who named the first vessel built in Sussex that was despatched to Australia, viz., the Lizzie Webber, after her own name. This vessel is the property of her father, and has made about as successful a voyage to the antipodes as any one this year, there having been but little sickness, and only one death on board. Mr. Webber himself was also married a few days since, in London, to Miss Etherden, his second wife.—Sussex Herald.

THE CONSTITUTION OF TASMANIA.

THE Legislative Council of Van Diemen's Land has adopted, by a majority of eleven to nine, the Report of the Select Committee on the New Constitution, the heads of which we published in a recent issue. We have now before us a report of the debate which took place on the motion of Mr. T. D. CHAPMAN that the report be adopted.

Both the report and the debate upon it are characterized by a certain degree of crudity; not greater, however, than might naturally be expected under the circumstances. The report is signed by Mr. RICHARD DRY, and is probably his own production. Compared with the report of the Select Committee of our own Legislature, it is by no means a statesmanlike document, though we have no doubt that its framer has given expression to the honest opinion of a certain portion of the representatives of the people.

The chief features in the recommendations of the Select Committee are, the proviso that the Governor of the colony shall be removed upon address of two-thirds of the Houses of Legislature; the proposal to establish an Upper House elected by freehold suffrage of £25 per annum; and the proposal that the revenue of the colony shall be consolidated, and that all money bills shall originate in the Lower House, or House of Assembly.

It is to be observed that the Legislative Council appointed a Select Committee to report upon the subject without any special authority or invitation from the SECRETARY OF STATE,—the circulars to the GOVERNORS of New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia, not having been sent to the LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR of Van Diemen's Land. The Government officers, therefore, rather discouraged the adoption of the report, which was, however, carried only by a majority of two, in a House of twenty. But the debate does not enlighten us upon the opinions of the Government party as to the vexed question of a nominated or elective Upper House.

Assuming, however, for argument's sake, that the opinions of the Select Committee are those of the Colonists, we proceed to examine their recommendations. The first is that the New Legislature shall consist of a Governor appointed by the Crown; a Legislative Council, and a House of Assembly, to be styled collectively "the Parliament of Tasmania." To this there is no objection. The second clause, however, provides that the Governor shall be removable on an address carried by two-thirds of the members of either House. This, we believe, is an innovation on any Colonial Constitution, and would scarcely be operative, because the GOVERNOR would have the power of dissolving a hostile House of Assembly, and of proroguing the Legislative Council. The consequence of investing the two Houses with such a power as is proposed, although it might rarely be exercised, would be to destroy the balance of the Constitution, and to reduce the QUEEN's representative to the position of the mere executor of the will of the Legislature; a position incompatible with the functions properly appertaining to the Governor of a dependency, and contrary to the spirit of monarchical government. It may fairly be assumed that, if such a state of things should arise in the Colony, as to induce both Houses of the Legislature to address the Crown for the removal of the GOVERNOR, the Crown would at once remove him. The proviso appears, therefore, to be unnecessary, besides being unconstitutional.

The third clause gives the GOVERNOR power to call together and prorogue the Legislature, but not to dissolve the Legislative Council; which is to be elected for six years certain. By the fifth clause, all appointments to civil offices are to be vested in the Governor; a principle of which the necessity and expediency will not be disputed, and which, if established, would tend to remove many of the grievances complained of in reference to the manner in which the Executive Government is carried on.

The sixth clause declares that the Legislative Council should consist of twelve members, to be elected by the freeholders. Upon this clause, doubtless, there will be as great a diversity of opinion in Tasmania as exists upon the subject in the sister colonies. We shall not, on this occasion, discuss the theoretical question; but there is one consideration which has hitherto not been prominently urged, and which we take the oppportunity of suggesting. It is, that in no British colony (using the term in its strictest sense) has an elective Upper House yet existed, and that in broaching this new theory its advocates are running counter to the received colonial policy of England; and therefore they must take into account the probabilities of such a fundamental innovation being countenanced at home. We shall have other opportunities of considering this particular question in some of its more important bearings, which, in the heat of discussion, may have been lost sight of in our own colony.

In the meanwhile, we present our readers with another scheme of a constitution, propounded by a gentleman of considerable standing in Tasmania, which has been published in the Launceston Examiner. We will merely observe that though some of the suggestions are valuable, the proposal that the GOVERNOR should be elected by the colony is so entirely incompatible with the notion of dependency, as to be quite out of the question.

OUTLINES OF A NEW CONSTITUTION

adapted to the circumstances of Tasmania, or of any of the other Australian colonies.

EXECUTIVE.

GOVERNOR to be elected for a period of four years, by the whole constituency of the colony, to be re-eligible after the expiration of this term.

Her Majesty may disallow such election, or subsequently remove governor so elected, in which case a new election must take place.

Governor to be removed if both houses of the colonial parliament concur in a joint address for his removal.

Governor to take the oath of allegiance.

In case the Governor should die or the office should otherwise become vacant, the president of the legislative council shall act ad interim as governor until a new governor shall be chosen.

Should the British ministry refuse assent to this proposal to render the office of Governor elective, then, if he be appointed by the home authorities, his salary ought to be provided by the imperial parliament. He should still in such case be removable upon the joint address of both houses of the colonial parliament, as also by her Majesty.

Prerogatives and functions of the Governor.

Governor to be empowered to summon and prorogue the colonial parliament, and to dissolve the house of assembly.

To assent or withhold assent to bills which have passed both houses of the legislature.

To reserve bills for the assent of the crown.

To send to both houses of the legislature messages and draft bills.

To suggest amendments on bills passed by both houses, and to send them back for reconsideration.

To appoint and remove all officers employed in the civil service of the colony, without requiring the sanction of the home authorities.

To nominate the judges; but their final appointment should be subject to confirmation by both houses of the colonial parliament.

Judges not to be removable, except upon address of both houses of the colonial parliament.

Governor to have no control over the appointment or removal of ministers of religion, even though salaries be paid to them out of the public funds of the colony.

Governor to be empowered to grant reprieves and pardons.

Governor to issue warrants for the payment of all sums appropriated by the colonial parliament out of the general revenue of the colony.

Accounts in detail of all such payments to be submitted annually to both houses of the colonial parliament, after having been duly audited and countersigned by the auditor-general, with any remarks which the auditor may have to make thereupon.

Pensions and allowances to be provided for retired judges, and for other superannuated public officers, upon a fixed scale; such allowances to be determined according to the length of service, and not to depend upon the pleasure of the Governor.

Governor to forward without delay all addresses and remonstrances directed to the home authorities.

The following powers and prerogatives to be reserved to the crown.

Power of sending and receiving ambassadors, and of making treaties with any foreign state.

Power of making peace and war.

Power of granting letters of marque and reprisals.

Power of confiscating the property of alien enemies, and of laying an embargo on shipping.

The command of all naval and military forces employed in and about the colony.

The command of the militia in time of war.

The power of erecting forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other buildings for military or naval purposes.

The power of establishing police courts.

The power of granting titles of nobility.

Her Majesty may vest in the Governor all or any of these reserved prerogatives.

SENATE OR LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

The Senate or Legislative Council might be advantageously constituted by deputation from the municipal councils (see post—under the head of "municipal organization"). But if this proposal be thought impracticable under the existing circumstances of the colony, then in such case the following arrangements might be adopted:—

Legislative Council to consist of members elected by the constituency of the several electoral districts.

For each electoral district one legislative councillor to be chosen.

Legislative councillors to hold their seats for six years; one-third of the whole body to be changed every two years.

Legislative councillors to elect a president and other officers required to assist them in the due performance of their legislative duties.

Governor to have no control over officers so appointed.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY OR HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

After the next census shall have been taken, the Colonial Parliament shall revise the existing electoral districts, and allot representatives, as nearly as may be, in proportion to the free population. Till then two members to be elected for each of the present districts.

Hobart Town to return four members.

Members of the House of Assembly to hold their seats for three years.

Members to elect a speaker and other officers required to assist them in the due performance of their legislative duties.

Governor to have no control over the officers so appointed.

All money bills must originate in the House of Assembly, but the Legislative Council may amend them.

No vote of money shall be passed except it be recommended by the Governor. Subject to this condition, grants and salaries for civil services shall be voted from time to time, according to the discretion of the House of Assembly, except the salaries of the judges, which once granted ought not to be diminished so long as the judges hold their offices.

PROVISIONS AFFECTING BOTH HOUSES.

The qualification of the electors of members of both houses shall be as follows:—Occupation of a tenement worth £5 per annum, or possession of property (freehold or leasehold) worth £100; but the elector must have resided in such tenement, or have been possessed of such property during three months previous to the registration of his vote. An annual payment of £10 on a depasturing license. A degree or qualification authorising a person to practise in any of the learned professions shall entitle him to a vote in the district in which he resides.

The following classes of persons shall be disqualified for voting:—Persons holding offices of emolument, dependent upon the will of the executive government. Criminals whose sentences are unexpired, or who have not received conditional pardons. Aliens not naturalised.

The existing laws relating to the registration of voters and to the election of members, must be modified to suit the proposed changes in the Constitution.

Members to take the oath of allegiance.

No pecuniary qualification shall be required in members of either house, but the following classes of persons shall be ineligible—Aliens not naturalised, felons, &c., whose sentences are not expired, or who have not received a conditional pardon.

Members of both houses shall forfeit their seats by lunacy, by felony, by bankruptcy and insolvency, by becoming public defaulters, by absenting themselves during a whole session without leave of the house.

In case members of either House take office, or become contractors, or accept any emolument under the executive government, a writ must issue forthwith for a new election, but such members may be re-elected. Penalty on such members voting until re-elected.

Members may resign.

A new writ shall be issued by the president or speaker, upon motion to that effect, as soon as the occurrence of a vacancy shall have been ascertained in the Legislative Council or House of Assembly.

The following public officers shall be at liberty to take part in the debates of either or both houses, but not to vote unless duly elected:—Colonial Secretary, Colonial Treasurer, Attorney-General, Surveyor-General, and Chief Commissioner of Public Lands.

One-third of each house shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

Members of both houses to be re-eligible at a new election.

The tribunal for the the trial of controverted elections shall consist of three lawyers appointed by each house, with assent of three-fourths of its members.

Each house to select for itself the persons who shall constitute the tribunal for trial of its controverted elections.

The chief justice and puisne judges may be so appointed.

Such appointments shall be liable to revision within ten days after the commencement of the session, but not subsequently during the session.

The colonial parliament shall be convened at least once in each year.

Privileges of the Legislative Council and house of assembly.—Freedom of speech; freedom from arrest for debt; power to send for persons, papers, and records; power to publish or to withhold from publication their proceedings; power to compel the attendance of members; power to appoint and remunerate their own officers; power to remove by joint address of both houses, judges, and all other public officers.

Functions of the Legislative Council and House of Assembly.—To enact laws respecting every local matter that affects the well-being of the inhabitants of the colony; the Colonial Parliament shall not be empowered to pass laws affecting succession to the Crown of Great Britain and Ireland; to pass any law of nations as administered by the courts of Great Britain; to lay any duty on supplies for her Majesty's forces, military or naval; to lay any differential duty on exports or imports to or from any port of her Majesty's dominions, or any duty inconsistent with any treaty made between her Majesty and any foreign state; to confer any privilege or immunity on inhabitants of Tasmania that is not equally conferred on other subjects of her Majesty; to impose any disabilities founded upon differences of opinion on religious questions.

The territorial, casual, and other revenues of the Crown to be surrendered to the control of the colonial parliament (subject to a saving for existing engagements).

Colonial parliament to have full legislative control over the administration of the Customs and of every other branch of revenue.

JUDICATURE.

Three judges to administer justice in the colony, viz., one chief justice, and two puisne judges. Chairmanship of sessions to be abolished. Judges to go on circuit at least four times a-year, and hold sittings in all the principal towns of the colony.

MUNICIPAL ORGANISATION.

Municipal councils to be established in each electoral district. To be elected by the same constituency that elects members of the colonial parliament. To consist of not less than nine persons, nor more than twenty-one. Electoral districts to be divided into subdistricts, each of which shall elect one or more municipal councillors.

Municipal councillors to hold their seats for three years. One-third of the body to be changed annually. Retiring councillors to be re-eligible.

Municipal councillors may elect a mayor or warden. Mayor or warden to be chief magistrate of the district. Muncipal council may grant an annual salary to the mayor or warden. May also appoint and remunerate other officers.

Municipal council may acquire and hold property—may impose rates not exceeding in the pound by equitable assessment on property, but may not borrow without special sanction of colonial parliament.

One-third of the land revenue arising in any district to be placed at the disposal of the council of such district.

The colonial parliament may also contribute from time to time from the general revenue sums in aid of the funds of municipal councils.

Accounts of receipt and expenditure to be published annually in the Government Gazette.

Among the functions of the municipal council the following may be specially enumerated;—To provide for, maintain, and superintend roads, bridges, and other public works; police and prosecution of offenders; education; relief of the poor; sanitary regulations, cemeteries, slaughter houses, &c.; inspection of weights and measures; lighting, watering, and sewerage of towns; registration of births, deaths, and marriages; training of a militia; public amusements.

The municipal corporations at present subsisting in Hobart Town and Launceston, to be remodelled in accordance with the above suggestions.

Municipal council to nominate the senator or legislative councillor of the district. Such legislative councillor need not necessarily be a member of the municipal council.

This mode of constituting a senate or legislative council seems to the writer of these suggestions to be preferable to direct election by the constituency at large.

CONFEDERATION OF THE AUSTRALIAN COLONIES.

In case the other colonies of Australia should be disposed to form a confederation, the Legislative Council shall send one delegate and House of Assembly shall send two delegates to represent Tasmania in such confederation. Colonial Parliament may defray the expenses of such delegates. Members of either House of Colonial Parliament may be delegates; such delegation not to create a vacancy of their seats. Delegates may form conventions or agreements with other colonies; such conventions not to take effect unless ratified by both Houses of the Colonial Parliament.

Among the subjects which may become matter for discussion and agreement in such a confederation the following may be specially enumerated:—Inter-colonial tariffs, postage, electric telegraph, lighthouses and beacons, a penal settlement, extradition of criminals, copyright and patent for inventions, professional qualification, a mint, bankruptcy and laws for more easy recovery of debt due in one colony by persons residing in another, naturalisation, minimum price of public land, defence against a common foe.

Any other matter which can affect the common interest of the colonies may be entertained by such confederation.

FEDERAL JUDICATURE.

In case the confederation should desire to construct a federal court of appeal, such court shall be composed of judges representing each member of the confederation.

In such case the Governor of Tasmania shall nominate a federal judge to represent Tasmania.

This appointment must be confirmed by both houses of the colonial parliament.

A suitable salary shall be provided for such federal judge by the colonial parliament.

All cases now referred to England for trial shall be heard by such court of appeal, except those in which the interests of the empire at large are concerned.

Other classes of appeals may from time to time be referred to the federal judicature by the colonial parliament.

All questions arising respecting the interpretation of conventions or agreements between the several colonies shall be referred for decision to the federal judicature.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT.—TUESDAY.

SITTINGS IN BANCO.

BEFORE the full COURT.

ASPINWALL AND ANOTHER v. GREEN.

This was a motion for new trial. The case, which was tried at the last Nisi Prius sittings, before the Chief Justice and a jury of four, was an action against a shipowner for loss said to have been occasioned by the injury of a cask of perforated zinc, through negligence, on board the defendant's vessel (the Waterloo), wherein that cask had been brought from London to Sydney. The substantial question in this case was, what was the condition of the cask at the time of its shipment? The plaintiffs relied chiefly upon the bill of lading, signed by the captain, and containing the usual admission as to the shipment of the goods therein mentioned "in good order and condition." They likewise gave evidence to show that the cask had been so kept since its storage as to render it impossible that the injury complained of could have been sustained during that period. This injury was the partial destruction of the zinc by the corrosive action of some acid which had trickled on to the cask, and had passed between the staves, leaving only a faint mark on the outside. For the defendant, evidence was given of careful stowage in a part of the vessel where it was believed there were no acids near it. Reliance was also placed upon the fact that defendants had not only received the cask without objection, but had kept it a month before making a complaint of this injury. His HONOR told the jury that the admission on the bill of lading was only to be taken in a general sense, and as amounting to a statement that the cask and its contents, so far as the captain was enabled to judge from external appearances, were in good order and condition. The jury found for the defendant, assigning as a reason for their finding that they had not sufficient proof of the shipment of the cask in good condition. A new trial was now asked for, upon the ground that this verdict was against evidence. The admission on the bill of lading, it was contended, was prima facie a proof that the goods had been shipped in good condition, and in the absence of distinct evidence to rebut this, the jury ought to have found for the plaintiffs.

The motion was argued between Mr. Broadhurst for the plaintiffs, and Messrs. Darvall and Meymott for the defendant.

The COURT, although regarding the verdict as unsatisfactory, was not prepared to hold that it was demonstrably wrong. The evidence on either side was very vague, indistinct, and inconclusive, but there was some evidence upon which the verdict of the jury could have been based, and that verdict could not, therefore, be disturbed unless upon payment of costs as a condition precedent, and this was granted as a matter of grace owing to the importance of the case in a mercantile point of view.

The ruling of their Honors with reference to the operation and effect of the admission on the bill of lading was substantially the same as that of Sir Alfred Stephen at the trial, and the case of Berkeley v. Watling, 7, Ad. and E., was particularly cited by Mr. Justice Dickinson as one which established this principle.

DOE, DEM. CUNNINGHAM v. RYAN.

This was a motion upon leave reserved to enter a verdict for defendant. The case, which was tried at the last nisi prius sittings, before the Chief Justice and a jury of four, was one of ejectment to recover possession of the Beehive public-house, in Campbell-street, formerly occupied by Maurice Walsh, at present under sentence for manslaughter. Ryan claimed under an underlease from Walsh, executed between the time of his committal and of his conviction, but the plaintiff, who was the original landlord, claimed a right of re-entry upon an alleged breach of covenant in Walsh's lease,—a covenant that he would neither do nor permit to be done any act which might entail a loss of the license. His committing the crime of manslaughter was relied upon as an act of this nature, but no evidence was given of his guilt beyond the production of a record of his conviction. The learned Chief Justice held that the production of this record did not of itself prove, as against Ryan, that Walsh had been guilty of manslaughter, inasmuch as there was a possibility of his having been convicted innocently. Other questions arose as to the legal effect of the underlease and the verdict for the plaintiff, which was finally agreed to under his Honor's direction, was accompanied by a special finding to the effect that the underlease was a merely colorable one, made in order that Walsh might resume possession. In the present motion, however, the only substantial question was whether or not there was legal evidence of Walsh having broken his covenant by doing, or permitting to be done, an act which might entail a forfeiture of the license.

The case was argued between Messrs. Broadhurst and Milford for the plaintiff, and the Solicitor-General and Mr. Murray for the defendant.

The COURT held that, manslaughter being one of those acts which might entail a forfeiture of the license, Walsh would have broken his covenant by committing that act, even although there should have been no magisterial action to declare the license actually forfeited. But the guilt of Walsh must be proved, and the record of the conviction was not, as against Ryan, any evidence of that guilt. It proved the conviction, indeed, but this was no act which Walsh could be said to have done or permitted. It was the act of the Jury, which Walsh had done all in his power to oppose. Walsh's criminality ought to have been proved in the same manner as if he had been upon his trial. The verdict must, therefore be entered for the defendant, and with costs.

MEETING TO DAY.

In the estate of Thomas Brooks, a special meeting, at half-past 10 o'clock.

MEETINGS TO-MORROW.

In the estate of Thomas Sydney Hall, a special meeting, to decide upon an offer of composition, at 11 o'clock.

In the estate of Nicholas Nelson, a certificate meeting, at noon.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

A SERIES of local meetings in the city have been called by the Constitution Committee, for the purpose of giving the citizens an opportunity of considering the principles of the New Constitution Bill. The first meeting was convened in Bourke ward, at Russell's Hotel, and the hour announced was half-past seven o'clock. At that hour, however, and until after eight o'clock, only two or three persons made their appearance in the room, and the reporters (already present) having nothing to report, vacated the seats and tables prepared for them, the attendance being insufficient to warrant any formal adjournment.

THE PETITION TO THE QUEEN AGAINST THE NEW CONSTITUTION,

(From Tuesday's Empire.)

YESTERDAY being the day appointed by his Excellency the Governor-General to receive a deputation from the New South Wales Constitution Committee, with the petition to her Majesty against the New Constitution, adopted at the late public meeting, the gentlemen deputed—Mr. Gilchrist, chairman; Mr. Holden, vice-chairman; Mr. Piddington, secretary; Mr. Darvall, M.C., Mr. Bligh, M.C., and Mr. Morehead—proceeded to Government House according to appointment, at two o'clock. Upon the deputation being introduced by the Private Secretary, Mr. Gilchrist, as chairman of the committee, read the following address:—

May it please your Excellency—

We have sought this audience for the purpose of submitting to your Excellency, as the representative of the Imperial Government in this colony, such explanation as we feel may be naturally expected from those who resort to the unusual course of an appeal by petition to her Majesty against an injury apprehended from those of whom a majority are ostensibly their own representatives.

Deeply grateful as we are for the liberal intention which prompted her Majesty's Government to confide to a body regarded as the exponent of the public will of the colony the task of framing its future Constitution, we are in the same measure sensible to the necessity of rendering manifest the fact (for fact it is) that the general strain of opinion in the Legislative Council is such in this matter as wholly to defeat this gracious intention of her Majesty's advisers, being diametrically opposed to the wishes of the aggregate body of the colonists. We confidently state this to your Excellency as our own solemn conviction. We rely, in corroboration, on the deliberate expressions of public opinion at numerous public meetings in Sydney and elsewhere, uninterrupted by none of an opposite character, on the petition now presented for transmission, and on the nearly unanimous voice of the colonial press.

We submit to your Excellency's serious consideration, whether this adverse feeling is not manifest and potent to be compatible with the safe and peaceful working of any measure at all allied to that which the Council has shown a disposition to force upon the colony.

Satisfied that such a persuasion must be the result of your Excellency's personal observation, we feel every assurance that her Majesty's Government will, as a necessary consequence, be also fully apprised of this important fact.

The Committee and Petitioners whom we represent further trust that, as your Excellency has had every opportunity of knowing that their proceedings have been moderate, loyal, and dispassionate with sincere attachment to Her Majesty's Government, and British Institutions, your Excellency will afford them the benefit of your testimony to this effect, in order to repel those false and contemptuous imputations which have been improperly subjected during the recent debate on the Constitution Bill in the Legislative Council.

The following is the reply, as read by His Excellency.

To John Gilchrist, Esq., and the Deputation from the New South Wales Constitution Committee.

GENTLEMEN,—I will forward the Petition which you have just placed in my hands to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, in order that it may be submitted by that Minister to Her Most Gracious Majesty.

I will also transmit to the Secretary of State a copy of the Address which you have now presented to me.

CHARLES A. FITZ ROY.

Government House, 17th October, 1853.

At the conclusion of this answer, Mr. DARVALL expressed a hope that His Excellency would recommended their Petition to favourable consideration.

The GOVERNOR then said he would accompany the petition with such representations as he conscientiously deemed the facts to warrant—that such had been his invariable practice on similar occasions, but that he did not think Mr. Darvall entitled to demand any pledge or explanation as to its particulars.

Mr. DARVALL said he did not profess a right to make such demand, but that as great importance would, doubtless, attach to his Excellency's opinion, he had hoped some expression of it might have been afforded, especially as the importance of assimilating to each other the Constitutions of the various Australasian colonies might naturally engage his Excellency's attention.

The Governor has said that he fully agreed in the importance of some uniform system being applied to these colonies, whatever system might be decided on as the proper one: but that he was not prepared at present to say more than that his representations to her Majesty's Government should be, as they invariably had been, honest and impartial.

After some remarks from Mr. PIDDINGTON upon the construction of the present Legislative Council, disqualifying it from fairly representing the colony in framing its future Constitution, his Excellency reiterated his assurance that he would forward the petition with an impartial statement of the case, and the interview ended.

The petition, we understand, was signed by nearly 4000 persons, the profession or calling and the residence of each petitioner being appended to his signature.

EXPORTS FROM BRISBANE.

(From the Moreton Bay Courier.)

SUBJOINED is our usual table of the exports from Brisbane during the quarter ending with last month. We have valued tallow at £3 a ton more than last quarter's account, and have made a small reduction in the prices of hides, sheepskins and timber. In other respects former valuations have generally been preserved.

It may be observed that a considerable quantity of produce is at present reserved for direct shipment to England; and we do not take into account any of the cargo already shipped on board the Advice.

The exports from Brisbane alone, for the three quarters of the year 1853 already expired, amount to £210,545 1s 8d. This is not a bad statistical fact for a port that has been so much abused.

The last quarter's shipments from the outports north and south of Moreton Bay must stand over until we have received the necessary journals from Sydney.

STAIRS BETWEEN THE QUEEN'S AND BON ACCORD WHARVES.

(From Yesterday's Government Gazette.

THE following rules for the regulation of the Old Stairs between the Queen's and Bon Accord Wharves having been made by the police magistrates of the city of Sydney, and approved by his Excellency the Governor-General, in terms of the Act of the Governor and Council, 8, William IV., No. 13, are published for general information.

Rules and Regulations to be observed by the Public, and also by Licensed Watermen plying for hire at the Old Stairs between the Queen's and Bon Accord Wharves, in the City of Sydney.

1. Whereseever the word "stairs" is used in the following regulations, the same shall be held to mean all that space or piece of land between the boundaries of the Queen's and Bon Accord Wharves.

2. No vessel shall be moored off the said stairs except in such position as shall be in conformity with these regulations.

3. No warp, hawser, or cable shall be made fast to any part of the said stairs, nor shall any warp, hawser, or cable be so placed as to impede the free access either by land or water to such stairs, nor shall any vessel be moored to either of the adjoining wharves, so that any portion of the hull shall overlap the said stairs.

4. No merchandise shall be landed or shipped at the said stairs.

5. No carriage, cart, dray, barrow, or other vehicle, shall stand or remain within fifty feet of the front of the said stairs.

6. All penalties imposed under the foregoing regulations, together with costs, are to be paid forthwith, or within such time as the convicting Justice or Justices shall direct, and in default of such payment the same may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offending party, and should sufficient distress not be found, then the offender may be committed to the common gaol, at Darlinghurst, for any time not exceeding one calendar month.

GENER

PETTY SESSIONS.—His Excellency the Governor-General has appointed Stroud to be a place for holding courts of petty sessions, under the Act of the Colonial Legislature, 3rd William IV., No. 3.

TICKETS OF LEAVE CANCELLED.—The following prisoners of the Crown have had their tickets of leave cancelled for the reasons stated against their respective names:—Bingham John, per Recovery, having surrendered from ill health; Medical Superintendent, Invalid Establishment; Cowen Lawrence, per Nautilus, for being absent from his district; Water Police Bench; Crowley, Cornelius, per Earl Grey (1), for being absent from his district; Wollongong Bench; Davis William, per Hashemy, for being illegally on premises; Wollongong Bench; Moran John, Captain Cook (3), for being absent from his district; Water Police Bench; Shanahan Thomas, per Havering, for absence from his district; Wollongong Bench; Toole John, per Recovery (3), for attempting to defeat the ends of justice in a case of murder; Armidale Bench; Voisin Jacques, per Hashemy, declines accepting a ticket of leave; Medical Superintendent of Invalid Establishment; Wood Thomas, per Mount Steuart Elphinstone, for habitual drunkenness; Ipswich Bench.

SUSPICION.—The man named Eccleston, who was apprehended near Mr. Woolley's, at the Glebe, under circumstances which justified a suspicion of his motives, and, when brought before the Mayor, was remanded, in order that the truthfulness of his statement might be inquired into, was yesterday discharged from custody: the Chief Inspector of Police having certified to the magistrate that the result of the inquiry bore out Eccleston's account of himself. He was therefore discharged, with a caution against sleeping in paddocks; if he must drink he had better do so at home.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—Between the hours of one and two yesterday morning, Sergeant Bourke, being on duty near the Circular Quay, heard the screams of a female; following the sound, he walked up a gangway, across the deck of a vessel, and the other side saw a young female named Taylor hanging to a rope by her hands; having obtained the assistance of a waterman, he went round and rescued the woman from her perilous situation, and took her into custody for protection. She said she intended to commit suicide, and though rescued now she would take another opportunity; and thrice, on the way to the lock-up, she swooned away. She was perfectly sober. Yesterday she was brought before the mayor; the officer having deposed to the foregoing effect, the defendant said that she some time since lost her husband by death, and had since resided with her mother, she was however very unhappy, and had made up her mind to drown herself; she however thought of her child before quite giving up her hold of the rope, which made her scream out for assistance. She was remanded, in order that Dr. Rutter might have an opportunity of forming an opinion upon the state of her intellects.

DISORDERLY CARMAN.—Between 11 and 12, on Monday night, Constable Toley saw a cabman, named Newcombe, standing with his coach, in which were several females, at the door of a public house, in Pitt-street; the cabman was drunk, and both his conduct and that of his lady passengers was very disorderly and noisy; Foley desired him to move on, whereupon he opened a volley of abusive and obscene language upon the constable, which rendered it necessary to make him prisoner. He was yesterday sentenced to pay a penalty of 40s., which having been complied with, he was discharged.

THE LATE HIGHWAY ROBBERY NEAR THE MUSEUM.—William Martin, the man apprehended for the late robbery of Mr. Robert Peel Raymond, (the particulars of which have already appeared,) and who was remanded in order to ascertain if the watches pawned by him at Isaacs's and Cockerell's might lead to the discovery of any other charges against him, was yesterday brought before the Mayor pursuant to remand. There was however no further evidence. He was committed to take his trial at the Central Criminal Court in December next. The Mayor said that Constable Kennedy was entitled to very great credit for the courageous and determined manner in which he had acted in the apprehension of this man, having, although he had every reason to know, as was the case, that the prisoner had firearms, pursued him upwards of 60 feet in an underground drain. He hoped that the Government would reward such conduct as it deserved. Mr. Dowling said that a gentleman, having read of Kennedy's conduct in the papers, had forwarded to him (Mr. D.) the sum of £1, by way of commencing a subscription reward fund for Kennedy. He had communicated with the Inspector-General of Police, who considered it an occasion in which a member of the force was entitled to accept of any extra reward which might be offered. He would have pleasure in giving something for such a purpose himself, as he believed would a good number of his brother magistrates; nor did he think that the citizens generally would be found at all backward in contributing for such a purpose.

STEALING.—On Monday evening, a bundle containing three coats was stolen from the premises of Mr. Shopland, Park-street, where the owner, a person named Tucker, had left them for sale.—Later, on the same night, a tarpaulin, of the value of £6, was stolen from the dray of one Hoolahan, of Greendale, while standing at the Haymarket.

HOUSEBREAKING.—On the morning of the 1st instant, the residence of Mr. George Morris, at Cangie, near Grafton, was broken into and robbed of one double-barreled and one single barreled gun, one eight-barrel revolving pistol, several horse pistols, several articles of wearing apparel, some percussion caps, gunpowder, tea, sugar, and flour, £33 in bank notes, and an order for £2 by John Dobie in favour of Moses Essex.

TENEMENT CASES.—We have been requested to state that the rule for the days of hearing cases under the Tenants' Act on Tuesday and Friday only in each week will not come into operation until the 1st proximo.

STEALING SHOW GOODS.—Charles Moore was yesterday committed to take his trial for stealing one of two coats from Harris and Son's shop door, on Friday evening; and a man named Patrick Ryan was committed to take his trial for stealing the other. Ryan was apprehended on Monday evening, in Clarence-street, by Sergeant M'Gee. He alleged that he only got out of trouble at Newcastle a day or two since, bought the coat in question of a tailor in that city named Rogers, and only arrived in Sydney by steamer on Friday night.

HOUSEBREAKING.—On Thursday evening last, Mr. W. Riley, landlord of the "Coach and Horses" Inn, Bradalbane Plains, received information that a horse-keeper named Henry Ryan, alias "Long Harry," belonging to the mail horses which stop at that hostelrie, had clandestinely bargained to dispose of, to some parties travelling with drays upwards, an assorted lot of provender for man and beast, consisting of maize, hay, and potatoes, the property of the said Mr. Riley and Mr. Elliott, the mail contractor, to be delivered at the 'witching hour of night. A coup d'état was made by Mr. Riley just after Long Harry had effected an entrance into the kitchen through the window, decidedly burglariously. The intruder was compelled to submit to his superior, who hand and leg cuffed him, and doubtless head-cuffed him, too. Mr. Riley brought the delinquent into town yesterday afternoon, and safely lodged him in the lock-up. He will be examined at the Police Office this morning. Mr. Riley's conduct was courageous and praiseworthy in the extreme.

BRAIDWOOD PROPERTY.—Our correspondent has supplied us with the result of the late sale of Crown lands at Braidwood. Town allotments—Lot 1, £51; 2, £53; 3, £53; 4, £41; 5, £60; 6, £56; 7, £59; 8 £52; 9, £55; 10, £75. Country allotments, upset price £1, 44½ acres, 62½ acres at £1 upset price. The amount realised by town allotments was £545. Country allotments £151,—total, £696.

Mr. Rishworth begs to direct the attention of purchasers to his sales, at Mr. Mort's Rooms, Pitt-street, this day, at 11 o'clock, of packing cases, surplus stores, household furniture, books, prints, &c.; at 12 o'clock, boots and shoes, shoemakers' tools, &c.

Mr. Dean desires to call attention to his sales by auction, this day, at the Phœnix Wharf, at 10 o'clock, part of the wreck of the Margaret, consisting of chains, anchors, copper, junk ropes, iron, cook's galley, &c.; at the Albion Wharf, at prompt 11 o'clock, 1000 dozen pint pickles, the cargo of the Amelia, consisting of boards, cedar, shingles, battens, laths, &c.

PRECIOUS STONES.—Perhaps it is not generally known that precious stones, such as garnets, sapphires, and rubies, are to be found in considerable abundance at many of the southern diggings, especially in the beds of the streams. We have just seen some very beautiful specimens, procured at Reid's Creek, where they are to be found in great quantity, but altogether they are very small, and as this is the general characteristic of the precious minerals both in this colony and Victoria, it is not likely they will ever realise a high marketable value. The most of those we have seen appear to have undergone some volcanic action, by which they have been broken and their crystalline shapes disfigured. There are many of these minerals, however, sufficiently large and perfect to render it worth while saving them, particularly as they are generally found associated with the gold in the process of cradling, and therefore require no extra labour to obtain.

MAINTENANCE.—A person named Hawke, yesterday appeared before the Bench (Mr. Dowling, Mr. Campbell, and Mr. Chambers) to show cause why an order should not be made for the support of his wife. Complainant deposed that she was married to defendant about two years ago, who very shortly afterwards went to the diggings, neither leaving her any means of subsistence, nor during the interval forwarding her any; during his absence she had cohabited with another man; on his return, on last Saturday week, he sought her out; she explained to him her circumstances, resulting from his abandonment of her; they mutually agreed to forget and forgive, and she gave him the key of her house as its future master; he remained with her until Monday evening, when he went out returning at 3 o'clock next morning; on Tuesday he went away and had not since returned; she had seen him in the company of girls of the town, and was in a house of ill-fame when apprehended on Saturday; he told her he had been very successful at the diggings, showed a roll of notes he could scarcely grasp, and said that there was not a note amongst them; Messrs. Dowling and Campbell thought that by her own showing she had shut herself from any claim for maintenance as a wife; the Act was not framed with a view to the protection of such a person as she admitted herself to be. Mr. Chambers differed: he thought that in viewing the conduct of complainant, the treatment she had received from the defendant ought not to be overlooked. Under the circumstances stated, and which were not denied,—that particularly of his seeming reconciliation, and subsequent taking up with her as his wife—he thought she had a claim for support. The case was dismissed. Mr. Cory conducted the prosecution, and Mr. Nichols the defence.

COLONIAL CHURCH LEGISLATION.—We learn from a private letter that the Archbishop of Canterbury had not, up to the 14th June, introduced his promised Bill for enabling the members of the Church in the Colonies to manage their own affairs: and that there was reason to fear, lest the improbability of reconciling conflicting opinions upon the subject would render the exertions of His Grace abortive. Under these circumstances, the advice of our friends in England is, that we should not wait to be set in motion by the Imperial Legislature, but should begin and act at once, as far as we can, in the Colony itself. They recommend that we should draw out our scheme, just as if a bill, of a similar nature with that proposed by Mr. Gladstone, had passed, or as if no such Bill were required; then proceed to carry it out as far as practicable; and afterwards apply either to the Colonial or Home Legislature to remove any obstacles which may present themselves to the working of the plan, or to confer such powers as may be found requisite for giving it full effect. In this recommendation we entirely concur. It was right that we should wait, and see whether the Government and the Heads of the Church in England could, as we are now led to hope, agree upon some general basis, on which we might ground our local proceedings; but if the present session pass and nothing be done, we may justly conclude that they cannot do this, and may properly proceed to take the matter into our own hands, and do what we can for ourselves. At the Meeting of the Annual Stipend Board, on the 24th June last, a Committee of five persons was appointed to draw up a bill for amending and extending the existing Church of England Act, and the Bishop was requested to assemble the Board in the month of May to consider the report of the Committee. The Committee, however, considered it to be premature to meddle with the existing Act at present, while the question was in such an unsettled state; and hence no bill has been prepared by them, nor any meeting of the Board convened by the Bishop. It appears therefore expedient still to wait, until we know with certainty the result of the Archbishop's promised bill, and likewise until those, upon whose judgment we should most rely for assistance in settling this very difficult matter, get some little breathing time from the incessant occupation, which the manifold public matters under consideration and the multiplicity of private business impose upon them. Next year we hope, if God permit, that a second Conference of the clergy and laity may be held, at which all the particulars of a Diocesan Church Constitution may be carefully considered, and satisfactorily arranged.—Melbourne Church of England Messenger.

We are particularly requested to direct attention to John G. Cohen's extensive sale of Boots and Shoes, Cape, Tunbridge Ware, Toys, &c., at the Mart, Hoskins-street, this day, to commence at 11 o'clock precisely, without reserve.

Parkin and Lambert request public attention to their sales this day of general merchandise, commencing at 10 o'clock, at the Mart.

WESTERN NEWS.

(From the Bathurst Free Press.)

BREACH OF THE SCAB ACT.—John Beard appeared before the worshipful the police magistrate, on Wednesday last, to answer an information filed by the chief constable for "driving, turning out, and conducting" sheep infected with scab on the Green Wattle Flat, and within a quarter of a mile of the road leading from Bathurst to Sofala. Mr. Serjeant appeared for the prosecution, and the defendant was found guilty and fined in the sum of £20 and £1 16s. 6d. costs. A second information was filed for driving, turning out, &c., without posting the usual notice required by law. Upon this charge also he was found guilty, and fined in the sum of £5 and £1 14s. 6d. costs.

MR. COHCROFT'S LICENSE.—In the report of Mr. Cohcroft's application for a license, which appeared in the Free Press of the 1st instant, the result was by some means omitted. Suffice it to say, however, that the application was successful.

THE CARCOAR HORSE THIEVES.—Since our last publication we have been furnished with the following additional particulars relative to the gang of horse thieves lately apprehended near Carcoar. Jeremiah Cullen, of King's Plains, was also committed on the 29th ultimo, for stealing a horse belonging to Mr. John M'Phillamy, of Mount Tamar. Mr. Spink, poundkeeper of Carcoar, was the means of his detection. Another of the same gang, whose popular cognomen is Harry the Boy, alias Tunks, alias May, with sundry other aliases, was committed at the same time upon various charges of horse stealing.

THE LACHLAN MURDER.—We have received intelligence to the effect, that James M'Loughlan has been fully committed to take his trial at the ensuing Circuit Court for the wilful murder of Sarah Atkins, with a smoothing iron. The miserable man confesses to the murder, and the evidence goes to show that previous to the deed being committed he had expressed an intention of killing deceased—the person to whom she was about to be married—and every individual connected with the affair. Although the prisoner asserted that the stab from which he was suffering was inflicted by his victim, the surgeon who conducted the post mortem examination, gave it as his decided opinion that the wound was self-inflicted.

AN UNNATURAL MOTHER.—A creature in the shape of a woman, answering to the name of Johannah Grogan, but deplorably destitute of the qualities and characteristics by which the softer sex is usually marked, appeared before the Police Magistrate on Tuesday last for having unnaturally deserted her child, an interesting little girl of about three years of age. It appears that the mother is one of those unfortunates who have no recognised mode of obtaining a livelihood, and that, in the pursuit of an unrestrained course of life, she had left the child in the public streets to the mercy of chance, where it was found crying by some person and given into the keeping of a Mrs. Shannon, by whom it had for some length of time been maintained. The poor little sufferer bore signs of most barbarous treatment about her person, particularly upon the neck, which carried a mark as if of an attempt at strangulation. The prisoner was very severely lectured for her brutal and unmotherly treatment of her child, and ordered to pay 10s. per week to Mrs. Shannon, during the time she had maintained her infant.

MORE UNNATURAL STILL.—Mary Sinclair, late inhabitant of Kelso, where for many years past she has lived a dissipated and very immoral life, was brought before the Police Magistrate under the Vagrancy Act, for having no lawful mode of obtaining a livelihood. It transpired in evidence that the prisoner had two little children who, although tender in years and breathing the air of a country in which destitution should be unknown, have often suffered the pangs of hunger. Amongst her other vices the prisoner could reckon confirmed drunkenness, and so infatuated had she become, that she has frequently been known to sell for rum the very bread, which the neighbours from sheer charity purchased to keep her children from starvation. Their clothes had been similarly disposed of for a similar purpose, and they appeared before the court in a state of semi-nudity. After a severe reprimand from his Worship, she was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment in Bathurst Gaol.

HORSE AND CATTLE SPECULATION.—Our district has become a favourite resort for speculators in sheep, horses, and cattle, great numbers of which have already been taken overland to Victoria. One immediate consequence of this traffic is a rise in the value of all kinds of stock, particularly in horses, the better class of hacks now readily realising £20 to £30, whilst good draught horses are worth from £35 to £50. We know several parties who are amassing rapid fortunes in this pursuit.

DEATH BY BURNING.—On Saturday last, a poor old man named Richard Wood, better known by the name of "Dick the Splitter," was found burned to death by a person named Fitzpatrick. An inquest was held over his remains on Monday, by Dr. Busby, the coroner for the district, when the following circumstances transpired. The deceased, who was 75 years old, pursued the avocation of splitter, and resided at Dick's Creek, near Rodd's new line of road. For some time previous to his melancholy end he had been in an infirm state of health, and residing alone in a bandycoot gunyah was dependent for occasional assistance upon Fitzpatrick, who frequently visited his place and administered to his wants. On Friday week he called and found him almost without provisions, and learned that for some days past he had been too weak to make himself a fire. Having lit a fire and procured a few eatables from a house three miles distant, he left him, and returned on Saturday, when to his horror he found the poor old man lying near the mouldering remains of a fire, quite dead, the greater portion of his clothes having been burnt to ashes. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

THE WEATHER.—After numberless illusory promises and threats rain has at length visited us, and we are happy to report in sufficient quantity for the purposes of vegetation. On Tuesday the clouds lowered and favoured us with a Scotch mist, which appeared likely to finish in a soaking rain, but towards the evening the hopes of the agriculturist were again mocked, the clearing of the atmosphere leaving the surface of the earth barely damped. On the following day, however, we received information that the Fish River had been visited by seven hours' soaking rain, and that upward teams from Sydney were bogging upon the mountains. Wednesday showed no signs of approaching rain, but some time in the night of Thursday or early on Friday morning it commenced pouring down upon the parched earth, and continued until after daybreak, thoroughly soaking the surface soil. This visitation has just reached us in time to save the wheat upon the plains, which was fast assuming a pale sickly tinge, and in some cases preparing to spindle. The bush wheat, although looking much more healthy, is generally very short, but these and other drawbacks are now removed by the genial rains with which Providence has favoured us. Already the plains look glad in their mantle of green and the whole face of nature assumes a livelier aspect. One beneficial result which will be immediately felt will show itself in a prevention of the threatened rise in the price of flour, of which we have lately heard a little whispering.

SUDDEN DEATH.—On Sunday morning last, Mr. George Russell, publican, of Ranken-street, was found dead in bed by his wife. Deceased had been suffering for some length of time from dropsy in the chest, and his ailment was aggravated by undue indulgence. When he retired to rest there was nothing in his appearance to lead to any apprehension of approaching dissolution. An inquest was held over his remains on Monday by Dr. Busby, at the Rankin and Piper Inn, when a verdict of died from natural causes was returned.

YASS.

ATROCIOUS MURDER.—Yass, October 12.—An inquest was held this day, at Kangalera, near Yass, touching the death of a man named Barry, a carpenter by trade. It appeared from evidence that deceased and a man named James Talbot, a shoemaker, resided together at Mr. Be-nard's; on Monday last, Talbot took his cutting knife and stabbed deceased twice in the heart, from the effects of which he immediately died. After the body became cold, horrible to relate, he cut the belly open, and took out the kidneys of his murdered victim; he then made off to Chew's hut, a distance of three miles, where he cooked the kidneys in a frying pan, and after eating one of them said, "I am satisfied now I have eaten one of the b——'s kidneys." The man Chew inquired "Whose kidneys?" when the murderer said "Barry's." He was, I am glad to inform you, immediately secured by Mr. Besnard, who was fortunately at home at the time. He was fully committed to take his trial for the wilful murder of Barry.

THE LATE ESCAPE.—Walsh and Coyle, who escaped from the Yass lock-up, as mentioned in your last, were re-taken on Thursday last, near Gunning, and brought into Yass on Friday, in irons. Locket, the lock-up keeper was to-day brought before John Richard Hardy, Esq., for allowing them to escape; his worship remarking at some length on his great neglect of duty. Mr. M'Jenne, chief constable, said he had another charge to bring against him; but Locket having wisely resigned previously, the Bench allowed him to do so, Dr. Campbell considering him perfectly useless.

SOUTHERN NEWS.

(From the Goulburn Herald.)

ADELONG DIGGINGS.—Within the last fortnight our diggings have assumed a good deal of activity, and presented a striking contrast to the monotony which has prevailed during the long-protracted winter. Numbers are daily pouring in from the Ovens, where success has by no means latterly been in the ascendant: indeed, many who have journeyed thither speak most unfavourably of them. The tardy approach of fine weather has hitherto prevented any work of a regular nature; but the diggers are in good heart, which, with confidence and perseverance, must ensure success.

One or two storekeepers have made their appearance with, I am happy to say, good supplies of everything—the want of which has been severely felt by the few sturdy hearts who have stood their ground during the winter; and it is to be hoped that the indomitable perseverance and untiring patience displayed by these men during a long period of inactivity and unremunerated expense, will be, ere long, amply rewarded. The very fact of their sticking to their claims proves the opinion entertained of this locality. Cradles, save for domestic purposes, are nearly obsolete, sluicing and 'long toms' carrying the day. I hope shortly to be in a position to give an idea of what is really doing. In the mean time, I have only to say that, without an exception, it is the prevailing opinion that these diggings will go ahead.

PITT TOWN COMMON.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—Among the many commons granted by former Governors to the inhabitants of different parts of the colony, was one of about 10,000 acres of good forest land by Governor King, for the use of the inhabitants and landholders in the parish of Pitt Town, near Windsor. This, like all other such grants, by an Act of the Legislative Council, has been granted to and placed under the management of three trustees for the use of all the commoners; such trustees being empowered to form such bye-laws (subject to the approval of the government) for the management thereof, as must be in accordance with the deed of the common, and in their opinion conducive to the best interests of the commoners. Now the trustees of the Pitt Town common have done so—have drawn up a code of by-laws, which grants equality to all—they grant nothing to one commoner that they deny another; they are founded upon justice and equality. Nevertheless, at meetings held at Pitt Town, one about six weeks since, and the other on the 14th instant, their persons and by-laws have been most unjustly and ungratefully the subject of abuse and condemnation, by persons who neither understand the one, nor can appreciate the just principles of the other—when I say incapable of understanding the by-laws, I refer to the fact that at their meeting they maintained that they permitted three times more stock to run on the common than is a fact. They stated and urged that a commoner who possessed one hundred acres of land could run 50 horses, 50 horned cattle, and 420 sheep. Now the trustees permit nothing of the sort—they only permit one-third of this number; and I do think that persons ought to confine themselves to facts: besides, this is a proof that persons at those meetings actually did not understand anything about what they were grumbling—did not know whether the by-laws allowed them one or three beasts on the common; and it is a further proof to the trustees that their complaints should not deter them from proceeding in their course of rectitude. It was also complained of that the by-laws allowed commoners to run sheep upon the common in the same proportion as other stock. Now any just man must admit this to be fair and equitable; any commoner, who has a sheep has as good a right to run that sheep as he who has a horse or cow has to run it; and the possessor of the horse has no more right to ask that the sheep should be put off than the owner of the sheep has to ask that the horse should be turned out. Each commoner, as a freeman and a British subject, has the right to keep whatever sort of stock it may be his will to keep. No commoner has any just right to dictate to another what kind of stock he may rear. No just, no upright, or honest man would wish to do so. Why, one farmer would have just as much right to go to another and say "Oh you must not grow wheat, only maize and oats, because that is what I grow," as one commoner has to say to another "You must not have sheep, but bullocks and horses, because I hate them." Yet such is the dictatorial, ridiculous, and supremely selfish object of these grumbling cynical commoners, who will not study anything else but self, and are so ready at tap-room meetings to sneer at the just, and cannot be too much praised, conduct of the trustees.

But it is to be hoped the trustees will proceed in their course of justice and equality between man and man, independently, as they have hitherto done, and not pay any attention to the appeals of persons who have neither reason nor fair play on their side: by so doing they will obtain the respect and esteem of the wise and good, the only persons whose applause is worth having, and also the approval of their own consciences.

The right management of the common lands of the colony being a subject of vast importance to society, I trust you will allow space for these remarks in your very valuable journal.

I remain, Sir, yours, &c.,
A COMMONER
(Who has no sheep)

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—I wish, through the medium of your valuable paper, to call the attention of the proper authorities to a dreadful nuisance in the shape of dead fowls, cats, goats, and rats, &c., is a state of putrefaction, with an accumulation of all kinds of filth, which is daily thrown from the corporation carts at the bridge in Stanley-street. The stench proceeding from such offensive matter, in an incorporated street of the city, where hundreds of respectable persons are daily passing, is really dreadful, and should surely attract the attention of the Inspector of Nuisances. Hoping for speedy redress,

I remain, sir, your obedient servant,
A SUFFERER.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Tuesday Evening, October 18.

THINGS are remarkably quiet just now, and we probably shall experience no great change until the arrival of later news from England. This we ought now daily to be looking for; but, with such vessels as have recently been engaged in the mail service, it is no easy matter to calculate as to time.

Boots, stationery, jewellery, and perfumery are suffering great depreciation at auction, and, the moment accounts of sales reach home, shipments will, no doubt, be altogether suspended.

Gilmore's stores, provisions, flour, and groceries were sold by auction, by Mr. Dean, and realised the following prices, viz.—Whybrow's pint pickles, 10s. 9d. to 11s.; half-pints salad oil, 9s. 6d.; pints ditto, 12s. 6d.; quarts vinegar, 11s. 6d.; half-pound anchovies, 3s. 9d.; assorted sauces, 5s. 9d.; half-pound mustard, 7s. 3d. to 7s. 6d.; pounds ditto, 12s. 7d. to 13s. 9d.; quarter-bottle sardines, 11s.; half-ditto, 10s. 11d.; half-pint capers, 10s. 1d. to 10s. 6d.; pounds curry powder, 12s. 6d.; York hams, 97½d.; English cheese, 8¼d. to 9¼d.; salmon, in barrels, 9d.; beef hams, 39½d. to 44½; mackerel, 3 cwt. casks, 40s.; English lard, 41½d.; Cork rose butter, in firkins, 11½d.; colonial fine flour, good samples, £23 7s. 6d. to £26; bran, 3s. 3d.; English oats, 6s. 9d.; English loaf sugar, 6¼d. to 6½d.; Mauritius ditto, £19 10s.; Manilas, 5s.; crushed ditto, 4½d. to 5d.; currants, 5s. 4d.; nuts, 7½d.; clarified lime juice, dozen cases, 10s. 6d.; arrowroot, in bags, 6½d.; sediltz powders, in tin boxes, 7s. 9d.; castor oil, quarts, 10s. to 10s. 6d; chocolate, in half-pound tins, 8d.; cloves, 7d.; mace, 1s.; and Glenfield starch 4½d.

A household property was sold by Messrs. Bowden and Threlkeld, on Monday last, for £400. The following are the particulars, viz., a four-roomed brick-built verandah cottage, standing on a plot of ground occupying a frontage of twenty-five feet to the Glebe road, by a depth of eighty feet, and held for the unexpired term of seventeen years, at a ground rent of £5 per annum.

A hundred and twenty-five acres of land, in the district of Illawarra, adjoining Captain O'Brien's grant, now held by the Loan Company, were sold by Mr. Dean, on the same day, at £4 17s. 6d. per acre.

The following properties were this day disposed of, by Mr. Mort, viz.—

A building block, situate on the west side of Bourke-street, facing Frost's academy, having a frontage of 120 feet, by an average depth of eighty feet, at £8 per foot.

A recently licensed inn, known as the Currency Lass, together with 100 acres of land, the whole situate in the Parramatta Road, about twelve miles from Sydney, for £1000.

A 60-acre farm at Brisbane Water, known as Piper's Shipbuilding Yard, with weatherboard cottage and other improvements thereon, for £200.

Allotments at St. Leonard's, having frontages to Mount-street and William-street, at 10s. per foot; and

A building block in the Parramatta-road, nearly opposite the Red Lion Inn, having a frontage of 24 feet thereto, by a depth of 100 feet, for £75.

STEAM FOR NEW ZEALAND

(From the New Zealand Spectator.)

THE explanations and information given by Captain Gibbs at the entertainment on Wednesday last as to the plans of the Peninsular and Oriental Company in introducing steam to New Zealand will, we have no doubt, be received by the settlers generally with unqualified satisfaction. Captain Gibbs, from his long experience in the service of the Company, is in a position to take a clear practical view of the question, and in his view many of the doubts and difficulties which appeared to beset the question are all swept away. There is now no doubt as to the Nelson coal,—it has been tried by him and found to answer in every respect: there can be as little doubt that the question of price, seeing how much depends upon it, will speedily be reduced within the narrowest limits; that from the large demand now certain to arise from steam alone, the necessary arrangements will be made by the Nelson settlers both for working the coal and for bringing it by tram-road or other cheap means of conveyance to where facilities for water-carriage exist. The question about the erection of a wharf is as quietly and conclusively settled. Though, no doubt, a good wharf is a very good thing, yet the Company can do without one; the expense will be saved, and the money applied to other objects in this province where it is most needed.

The proposed introduction of steam by the Peninsular Company exceeds what at first could have been expected. While we were busied in speculations as to the means of connecting the different New Zealand settlements by steam, the whole line to the Australian colonies and Great Britain is suddenly thrown open to us by the aid of a wealthy Company whose resources are most extensive; the isolation of the different settlements and the want of communication between them ceases; and a difficulty which might have grown out of the New Constitution, a difficulty of a serious nature, the gradual and complete separation of the different Provinces, will be entirely obviated. A serious difficulty in the way of the working of the New Constitution will also be removed by means of steam; wherever the sittings of the General Assembly may be held, the members will now be able to calculate with certainty on the means of going to, and returning from, the place of meeting, without delay. This certainty and regularity of communication will do more than anything else to promote the prosperity of New Zealand; fresh life and vigour will be given to the coasting trade: the great highway, the best road (when travelled by steam) between the settlements will be made available; and an influx of population, and an increase of revenue will follow as a natural consequence of this vigour to an extent which, when compared with previous years, will appear perfectly astonishing.

MRS. CUMMING.—The death of this unfortunate lady is announced. Since she was declared insane, she has been under the close surveillance of a lady appointed by the Lord Chancellor.

EARLY EGYPTIAN CHEMISTRY.—THE GOLDEN CALF.

IN the last number of the Philosophical Magazine there is an interesting paper on this subject by Mr. J. Denham Smith. He says—

Mr. Herapath's fact of a solution of silver having been used some three thousand years since as "marking ink," is in every way interesting, being excellent additional evidence of the familiarity of the ancient Egyptians with a somewhat advanced stage of the chemical arts; but, dissenting as I do from all the deductions Mr. Herapath has arrived at from this fact, and thinking it probable that they may take deep root and become widely spread as received opinions, if unremarked upon, I have ventured to allege a few reasons in refutation of the inferences of your correspondent.

The first conclusion necessarily involved in the views of Mr. Herapath is that the ancient Egyptians must have been acquainted with nitric acid; the second is, that they were familiar with the use of sulphuric and hydrochloric acids; the third, that the Great Lawgiver travelled with what must be considered a well-appointed laboratory, or, which is still less probable, was able to construct an impromptu one (both materials and apparatus) in the Desert; and the fourth, that the golden calf was dissolved in aqua regia; all of which conclusions are founded and built upon the single fact of the existence on mummy linen of marks which must have been produced by a solution of silver.

To the two first (the third I need not notice) I would object that there is no nation of antiquity with whose every day existence, their manners, customs, and arts, we are so well acquainted as with those of the ancient Egyptians; and that, whilst we have abundant evidence of their familiar and skilful practice of many metallurgic arts, there is no representation nor evidence whatever,—I speak under correction,—of their acquaintance with the art of distillation; and I hold that, in this instance, the absence of such evidence amounts to a prima facie proof that they were ignorant of it. How these acids were to be obtained without distillation, Mr. Herapath does not inform us. I have here taken the most favourable supposition, that the presumed Egyptian sulphuric acid was obtained by distillation, like the Nordhausen acid, rather than by any complicated processes similar to those employed in the present day.

Again, if it can be shown that the Egyptians of those times were acquainted with substances capable of producing a solution of silver, it is surely advisable to pause before adopting a theory involving the employment of various materials and several complicated processes, of which, excepting silver and common salt, there is no evidence whatever they knew of, and take Horace's counsel—

Never presume to make a god appear,
But for a business worthy of a god.

With silver, and consequently with its ores, with common salt, and with lime, it will at once be admitted that this nation was familiar; and although it is probably incapable of proof that ammonia was known to them, yet if we consider that sal-ammoniac was for ages derived exclusively from Egypt, being procured from the soot of camel's dung used as fuel, a necessity, and consequently a practice, which must have existed in the Mosaic epoch, as well as now, since no other fuel is procurable in the desert, together with the unchangeableness of eastern habits, and the fact that this salt was known to the writer of the earliest authentic chemical treatise extant, it is scarcely assuming too much to believe that sal-ammoniac was employed in the arts in ancient Egypt; and with these four substances, as every chemist knows, a solution of silver may readily be procured without the intervention of nitric, or indeed of any acid whatever; which solution is decomposed by exposure to air and light, particularly if in contact with an organic body, with the production of dark purple-black stains. It must not be supposed, because an argentine solution might have been procured in this way at the period we are considering, that I therefore hold such must have been the solution employed in Egypt; but that I merely suggest it as more probable and consistent with existing evidence, than the wholly gratuitous supposition that the marking-ink of ancient Egypt had nitrate of silver for its basis.

How the notion first arose, that the Israelitish idol was dissolved, I cannot comprehend, save that the text was never read by a "solutionist," seeing that it is directly opposed to the plain meaning of the sacred narrative, which tells its tale in as clear, simple, and concise language as could be employed in the present day, were we desirous of relating the same facts in the most condensed form. These are the words:—"And he took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder, and strawed it upon the water, and made the children of Israel drink of it." (Exodus xxxii, 20.) The other version of the translation closely resembles the foregoing:—"And I took your sin, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and stamped it, and ground it very small, even until it was as small as dust; and I cast the dust thereof into the brook that descended out of the mount." (Deut. ix. 21.) Can anything be more evident than that the golden calf was reduced to an impalpable powder, and thus rendered potable when mixed with water? Yet, Mr. Herapath, like many before him, writes,—"A probable speculation might be raised upon this" (the assumed knowledge of the uses of nitric acid by the Egyptians) "to account for the solution of the golden calf by Moses;" and then, after destroying the chimæra of the solution of the calf in sulphuret of potassium, tumbles himself into this Charybdis—"It is therefore more probable that the priests had taught Moses the use of the mixed nitric and hydrocloric acids with which he could dissolve the statue, rather than a sulphuret, which we have no evidence of their being acquainted with," an observation which I have endeavoured to show is equally applicable to these two acids.

If it be asked, How did Moses grind this malleable idol "as fine as dust?" the answer seems to me very easy; in the words of the text, "he burnt it with fire;" that is, he fused and alloyed it with a substance capable of rendering gold brittle. What this was I pretend not to say, but many bodies possess this property; it might have been arsenic, more probably antimony, but still more probably it was lead; I say, still more probably, as, although we all know the antiquity of the use of sulphuret of antimony for painting the eyes and eyebrows in the East, yet I am unaware of any positive evidence that it was known to the ancient Egyptians; whilst with regard to lead, we have both material evidence and written testimony,—"Only the gold, and the silver, the brass, the iron, the tin, and the lead" (Numbers xxxi. 12)—that lead was then a common metal; whilst with respect to the properties of this alloy, L. Gmelin, vi. p. 245 (Cavendish Soc.), thus describes an "Alloy of gold and lead:—11 parts of gold and 1 part of lead form a pale yellow alloy, as brittle as glass. The ductility of gold is destroyed by admixture of 1-1920th of lead." Now without presuming to say that lead was actually the material used by Moses to render the golden calf so brittle as to enable him to grind it as "fine as dust," yet I would submit as this metal completely fulfils every condition required by the history, and as dockimasy was then sufficiently advanced to allow of such an alloy being made, that it assumes a very high degree of probability, being in complete and exact accordance both with the sacred narrative and also with the ascertained state of the metallurgic art at the time, that the golden calf was alloyed with lead; that this brittle alloy, when stamped and ground as fine as dust, was "strawed" on the mount, of which the Israelites drank, and that a solution of the idol was neither effected nor even thought of.

AMERICAN CLOCKS FOR CHINA.

WITH all their ingenuity and industry, the Chinese appear to employ themselves but little in the art of clock-making; and it may be safely declared that Geneva turns out more time-keepers in a year than are produced in the whole of the Celestial Empire. In the large city of Nankin, there are not more than forty clock-makers; Su-chew has thirty, and Ning-po not more than seven; while, until recently, the value of the clocks and watches imported into China from Europe amounted to about half a million dollars yearly. It is said that the number of clocks really manufactured in the country in a twelve-month does not exceed 1500—a fact the more remarkable when contrasted with the state of the case in other countries. The watch and clock makers in London, including those who manufacture portions of the mechanism only, amount to more than 1000; and it it well known the enterprising horologists of New England make and export clocks every year by tens of thousands. These latter, with that keen spirit of trade which characterises them, have lately been turning their attention to China as a profitable market for their handicraft; and a request was despatched some time since from the United States' Patent Office to such American citizens as were resident in the flowery land for any information that might promise to benefit the branch of industry in question.

From one of the replies which this request elicited, we gather that the Chinese have always been too deficient in their acquaintance with astronomy and mathematics to construct proper sun-dials; and that their knowledge of these instruments was obtained from Europeans; while hour-glasses are known only as a contrivance "employed in western countries to measure time." Many Celestial gentlemen make it a sine qua non to carry two watches. Among these, specimens of very ancient workmanship are sometimes met with, as rotund as 'Nuremburg eggs;' and the wearers are too often anxious to make the pair go well together. The trouble they gave in consequence, in former days, to some of the Jesuit Fathers who were skilled in clock making, will be found mentioned in the *Lettres Edifiantes et Curieuses.

AUSTRALIAN BENEFIT INVESTMENT AND BUILDING SOCIETY.

NOTICE is hereby given that a Special General Meeting of the Shareholders of this Society will be held on Monday, the 24th day of October instant, at half-past three o'clock P.M., at the Society's Office, 456, George-street, for the purpose of confirming the following amendment of Rule 9, section 13, pages 8 and 9.

The Directors may (on one month's previous notice by advertisement and circular) direct a distribution by ballot of unpurchased shares; and any member having a share or shares so assigned upon such ballot shall, in respect of such shares, and within a certain period to be notified to such member give to the Society such real security for the repayment of the advance to be made upon such ballotted share or shares as the Directors shall deem just and reasonable; and if such member shall neglect to provide, and complete such security within the time so to be notified, he or she shall be compelled to withdraw from the Society the share or shares in respect of which such unpurchased shares were balloted for; and upon payment of a fine of one guinea on each share, to accept in respect of the share or shares so withdrawn the proportion of profit fixed by the Finance Committee under the rule of the Society for the withdrawal of shares. Provided that any member may decline the share or shares assigned to him by ballot, upon payment at the time of the ballot of one guinea upon each share, in which case the Directors may immediately and without further notice direct the share or shares to be again assigned by ballot.

By order of the Board of Directors,
2739 J. R. TREEVE, Secretary.

TO CONFECTIONERS AND SUGAR BOILERS.

W. NOWLAND, Confectioner, 137, George-street South, nearly opposite the Haymarket, most respectfully begs leave to acquaint the above mentioned tradesmen of Sydney, Port Phillip, Adelaide, Van Diemen's Land, and the vicinity of each country generally, that having disposed of his former consignment, advertised as received per Walter Hood, that a large and new stock, ex Gipsy Queen, has just arrived, and may be either viewed by such as are inclined to purchase, or those who, coming from the interior, may feel it much to their interests to enter into arrangement, as agents, with M. N.

A number of newly invented cases of Machinery for manufacturing every kind of elegant Confectionary, never before imported into either colony. M. N. having an experienced connection at home, will be regularly supplied with every new article as it is brought out, in this astounding age of invention; and all those who honour M. N. with a call will be compelled to confess that here indeed are alike sweets to the sweet.

The Gentry of Sydney and its vicinity will be punctually supplied with every variety of Fancy Confectionary, for cash, per order. Address as above, 137, George-street South, nearly opposite the Haymarket.

To Storekeepers in each colony, and the interior, the house of Mr. Nowland must very soon become universally known, throughout the length and breadth of each territory, as the first Wholesale and Retail Confectionary Establishment out of London, and second to none in Europe.

Be particular in marking the address, as there are several Richmonds now in the field, but only one Nowland, 137, George-street South, Sydney.

CONFECTIONARY! CONFECTIONARY! CONFECTIONARY!

☞ It may be as well here to remark that with the machinery received from England, have arrived, and are engaged at Nowland's, experienced and scientific hands to explain and work the machinery. 2771

Auctioneer and Agent,
9681 No. 453, George-street.

6 REASONS WHY Messrs. PETER and WILLIAM DEAN can supply you with FURNITURE, BEDDING, &c., at lower prices than any other house in the trade.
No. 1.—Because their goods are bought for CASH in the cheapest markets.
No. 2.—Because in importing their goods direct the public have not to pay the merchant's commission, which often makes a difference of 50 per cent.
No. 3.—Because they import every article connected with the manufacturing of colonial furniture, thereby enabling them to manufacture colonial furniture at less cost than others in the trade.
No. 4.—Because being bred and born in the business, and having a thorough knowledge of every branch of the trade, they know the class of goods to order suited to the wants of this market.
No. 5.—Because having been for many years connected with first-class houses at home, they know the best makers, and can with confidence guarantee every article they sell.
No. 6.—Because being a cash business, they are content with less profits than credit houses, their motto being SMALL PROFITS AND QUICK RETURNS.

CONFECTIONER'S SHOP AND EATING HOUSE,
George-street, Sydney,
UNEXPIRED LEASE.
Day of Sale—FRIDAY, 21st October.

MR. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY next, the 21st October, at 11 o'clock,
THE UNEXPIRED LEASE for one year and seven months of the premises in George-street next door but one to Bridge-street, and well-known as Johnson's Eating House and pastrycook's shop.
The premises comprise the following:—
Large double-fronted shop
Middle parlour and pantry
Large back parlour
Bedroom up stairs
Kitchen, with Russell's stove, large size
Cellar and yard
With bakehouse and workshop.
The yard has a back entrance from Queen's-place.
Along with the lease will be handed over all the shop fittings and fixtures, furniture, glass and crockery, baking utensils, &c., as per inventory, which can be seen at Mort's Rooms.
 This is a first-rate stand for business, and the house has now an extensive and respectable connection, turning in a very handsome income.
Terms at sale. 2649

VERANDAH COTTAGE AT BALMAIN, opposite Miller's Point.

MR. A. POLACK will sell by auction, on THURSDAY next, the 20th instant, at the Long Room, Russell's Hotel, Pitt-street,
A very neat VERANDAH COTTAGE, with Garden and excellent Well of Water, standing upon all that piece or parcel of ground, situate, lying, and being on the west side of NICHOLSON-STREET, in the Hamlet of Balmain, and bounded on the north by the property formerly belonging to Mr. Patterson, but now to Mr. Hunt, 120 feet; on the east by Nicholson-street, 50 feet; on the south by a line 120 feet; and on the west by property lately belonging to John Nicholson, Esq., but now to the Rev. Ralph Mansfield.
The Cottage contains four Rooms, with a passage all through; grates are in three of the rooms. The verandah is covered with galvanized iron. There is also a kitchen, a servant's room, pantry, scullery, coalshed, all covered with the same material.
The garden has been lately planted with fruit trees. There is a well of excellent water upon the premises. They are well secured by paling fences.
☞ The Cottage and premises are now in the occupation of Mr. O'Cock, but are let for three years at the rate of £120 per annum, from the 1st November, 1853, to Mr. Keep, of the firm of Keep and Parsons.
 The neighbourhood is highly respectable, and the views are grand and picturesque in the extreme, embracing the Parramatta River, North Shore, St. Leonards, the harbour of Port Jackson, the Sydney Lighthouse, and the whole of the eastern side of Sydney, Pyrmont, &c., &c.
To speculators such another opportunity cannot scarcely occur again.
Terms at sale. 2580

7 ACRES AND 32 PERCHES,
Near the town of Gunning.

MR. A. POLACK will sell by auction, on THURSDAY next, the 20th instant, at the Long Room, Russell's Hotel, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock,
ALL THAT ALLOTMENT OF LAND, being No. 2, containing by admeasurement 7 acres and 32 perches, situate and being in the county of King, near the town of Gunning, bounded on the south by the north side of a reserved private road, 75 links in width, and bearing east towards the high road from Gunning to Sydney 4 chains; on the east by a north line of 18 chains; on the north by a west line of 4 chains; and on the west by a south line of 18 chains, to the commencing south-west corner in the reserved road first named; which said land is part of all those 100 acres of land, situated in the county of King aforesaid, purchased from the Crown by Lewis Gordon, Esq.
☞ This land, viz., 7 acres and 32 perches, lies on the Sydney side of Gunning.
The town of Gunning is situated on the great south road, equidistant between the towns of Goulburn and Yass, being 25 miles from the former, 27 from the latter, and 150 miles from Sydney—just the spot for the erection of a first rate house of accommodation.
Mr. A. P. begs to remark that the above is particularly worthy of notice. It is a safe opportunity for the outlay of small capital, with the certainty of a speedy and handsome return.
Terms liberal, made known at time of sale. 2579

CHRIST CHURCH PARSONAGE,
George-street.
BLOCK OF LAND.
Day of Sale, FRIDAY, 21st October.

MR. MORT has received instructions from Arthur Martin a'Beckett, William Timothy Cape, and William George Pennington, Esquires, trustees for the Sydney Mechanics' School of Arts, appointed by and acting under the authority of an Act of Council, to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, the 21st October, at 11 o'clock,
A valuable BUILDING BLOCK, 100 feet, by 109 feet, more or less, being a portion of land originally intended for the erection of a School of Arts; but now disposed of by virtue of an Act of Council, to enable the trustees to select a more eligible site for that purpose. It is described as follows:—
"All that piece or parcel of land, containing by admeasurement one rood, a little more or less, situate, lying, and being in the said colony of New South Wales, in the county of Cumberland, in the city of Sydney, in the parish of St. Lawrence, bounded on the west by George-street (commencing at the south-west corner of allotment No. 35 in that street), bearing southerly 100 feet to Christ Church Parsonage; on the south by that church land, bearing easterly 109 feet to a lane 20 feet wide; on the east by that lane, bearing northerly 99 feet 10 inches to allotment No. 36; and on the north by a line at right angles to George street, bearing westerly 109 feet to the point of commencement in George-street."
This is a first-rate opportunity for securing a valuable block of land in a good locality.
Terms at sale. 1212

WATER FRONTAGE, DARLING HARBOUR.
Day of Sale, FRIDAY, October 21.

MR. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, the 21st of October, at 12 o'clock precisely,
A VALUABLE BLOCK OF LAND, Measuring 268 feet by 74 feet, situated in the rear of Brodie and Craig's Wharf, Bathurst-street, and having a wharf frontage of 60 feet, with the right to run out a pile or stone wharf 30 feet wide and 200 feet in length. This block of land is surrounded by streets on every side, and has access by Barker-street from Bathurst-street.
Mr. Mort begs to call the particular attention of capitalists to this valuable block of land, so well situated for business purposes.
The scarcity of wharf premises is daily increasing, and this site is peculiarly situated for immediate access to the centre of Sydney, without encountering any of the steep pinches so prevalent in the more northern wharf properties.
Darling Harbour will shortly become the most central position, and the metropolis will require much more convenient facilities for discharging vessels than at present. The consequence will be the formation of a second Circular Quay, and all lands adapted for stores and mercantile requirements will greatly increase in value.
Attention may be also called to the fact of this block being in the vicinity of the future site of the Railway Terminus; and Wharf property towards the south end of Sydney will be greatly enhanced in value, from whence a great saving of cartage will be effected.
A plan on view at the rooms.
Terms at sale. 1213

ROYAL OAK HOTEL,
Windsor Road.
Day of Sale, WEDNESDAY, 26th October.

MR. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on WEDNESDAY, the 26th October, at 11 o'clock,
THE ROYAL OAK HOTEL,
TOGETHER WITH 30 ACRES OF LAND,
Situated about half-way between Parramatta and Windsor, about 26 miles from Sydney.
The building is of stone throughout, with chiselled stone front, and contains spacious hall, and 8 rooms, with detached kitchen, servants' room, and dairy, with cellars beneath main building. The house is in good repair.
In the yard is an 8-STALL STABLE, and other out-offices.
The Land consists of 30 ACRES, more or less, fenced in and subdivided into a Cultivation Paddock; Grass Paddock, nearly all cleared; Garden, and Orchard, with a well of water in the Orchard.
The property is at present leased to a respectable tenant for £100 per annum.
This is a capital investment, for, independent of good interest for the outlay, the property will be materially increased in value so soon as the Bathurst line of road through Windsor is opened, a day not far distant—for independent of a saving of some thirty miles, the lay of the country is far better adapted for a public road.
Plan will be prepared.
Terms at sale. 12810

MARTYN'S Horse and Carriage Bazaar, 240, Pitt-street. Regular Sale Days—Tuesdays and Fridays. All parties sending Horses or other Stock for sale, are particularly requested to send written instructions previous to sale, stating brands, age, qualifications, and if with or without reserve.

COTTAGES AND LAND, PARRAMATTA STREET.
Day of sale, FRIDAY, 21st October.

MR. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 21st October, at 11 o'clock,
The following compact properties:—
LOT 1.
A block of ground having a frontage of 36 feet to May-street by a depth of 47 feet comprising two allotments of land as sold by Mr. Thomas May, on which is erected a BRICK BUILT COTTAGE, containing two rooms, with a large yard and well of water.
The land in front will admit of the erection of another cottage The above cottage is well-built.
LOT 2.
A block of land, having a frontage of 18 feet to May-street, by a depth of 47 feet, on which is erected a neat and commodious COTTAGE, built of brick, containing a large room in front, two bedrooms, and kitchen; there is also a yard and well of water.
LOT 3.
A block of land in May-street, with a frontage thereto of 18 feet by a depth of 47 feet, on which is erected a WEATHERBOARD COTTAGE, brick nogged, and containing four rooms; there is also a yard and well of water.
LOT 4.
A block of land, with a frontage to Brisbane-street of 18 feet, on which is erected a BRICK BUILT COTTAGE, containing three rooms; there is also a yard and well of water.
These form a snug property well worthy the attention of parties desirous of investing cash, as from their size the Cottages will always command tenants. They are in a good locality and well populated district.
A plan in course of preparation.
Terms at sale. 1982

ULTIMO HOUSE AND GROUNDS.
Lease for fifteen months.
Day of Sale, FRIDAY, 21st October.

MR. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, the 21st of October, at 11 o'clock,
The UNEXPIRED LEASE for 15 months of the premises so well known as Ultimo House and Grounds, situated off Parramatta-street on the road to Pyrmont.
The house is very capacious, and surrounded on three sides with a verandah 8½ feet wide, with one room on the north side, used as a tool house. The accommodations comprise the following,
On the ground floor, which is 11 feet 6 inches high,
Entrance hall
Two sitting rooms, 20 feet 9 inches by 18 feet each
Centre hall, with staircase
A saloon, 30 feet 6 inches by 18 feet
Parlour
Back hall, with staircase
Kitchen
Two servants' rooms
Two store rooms, with malt kiln
Two large cellars on basement.
On the first floor, which is 9 feet 6 inches high,
Four sitting rooms, all large, which could be converted into eight bedrooms
And three bed rooms
Detached washhouse, 43 feet by 18 feet 6 inches, recently used by the Sydney Washing Association
Three-stall stables, and paddock of about 14 acres, fenced in, and including about 1 acre of garden ground or good cultivation land.
There is a well of water on the premises.
 This is a capital house for a first class boarding-house or seminary; as the former, with every facility for the keep of horses, it would command a first-rate business, being at a convenient distance from Sydney, with all the advantages of the country. The view is pleasing and the site healthy. The premises and grounds are well situated for a large academy, affording means of recreation for the pupils, and being at a most convenient distance for day scholars.
Parties are invited to inspect the premises. Immediate possession can be given.
Terms at sale. 2652

VALUABLE COUNTRY AND SUBURBAN PROPERTIES.
Date of Sale, TUESDAY, 25th October.

MR. MORT has received instructions from the Manager and Directors of the British and Colonial Bank and Loan Company to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on TUESDAY, the 25th October, at 11 o'clock, The following valuable properties—
BOTANY SWAMP,
LOTS 1 to 7.

	A.	R.	P.
2.—	2	0	10
3.—	1	3	8
4.—	5	3	26
5.—	10	1	35
6.—	2	0	16
7.—	2	0	16

The whole of these blocks join each other, and are bounded by the Botany Bay road and two reserved roads. They adjoin the properties of Messrs. Hatfield and Hollingshed.
LOT 8.
COOK'S RIVER.
5A. 0R. 31P. of Land on Cook's River, and adjoining the Government road at the Timber Bridge. On this property is erected a
WEATHERBOARD COTTAGE, with six rooms, kitchen and out-offices; there is abundance of fresh water, and the land is principally laid out as a
GARDEN AND ORCHARD.
This property has a large frontage to Cook's River, and much of the soil is adapted for market gardening, which is about as lucrative an occupation as can be followed by an industrious man.
The vicinity to Sydney renders this a desirable residence for a man of business.
LOTS 9 to 12.
COOK'S RIVER.
Lot 9, 100 acres, more or less, adjoining the present or late properties of Messrs. Smart and Woolley, with a frontage to Cook's River of about 20 chains.
Lot 10, 100 acres, more or less, adjoining the above, with a frontage to Cook's River, and about 10 chains.
Lot 11, 100 acres, more or less, adjoining the above, with a frontage to Cook's River of about 12 chains.
Lot 12, 100 acres, more or less, adjoining the above, and bounded by Woolli Creek.
 The above farms are situated between Cook's River and Woolli Creek, and are in a first-rate locality for market gardens. The attention of the numerous enquirers after small farms is particularly directed to this sale.
LOT 13,
UNDERCLIFF, COOK'S RIVER.
40 acres, more or less, known originally as Thorpe's property, with a large frontage to Cook's River. The improvements on this property comprise A FAMILY HOUSE,
presently occupied by William Perry, Esq., Official Assignee. Also, LARGE PADDOCK, cleared, VINEYARD and ORCHARD.
 This is a nice property, at a convenient distance from Sydney, with good cultivation land, and valuable orchard and garden.
LOT 14,
CAMPBELLTOWN.
100 acres, more or less, adjoining the Glebe land. This lot is well watered, and adjoins the properties of Messrs. Foley, M'Donald, Tindall, and others. It was formerly occupied by Mr. Hammond, and the improvements comprise a COTTAGE, Garden, and cleared land.
This is a nice handy farm, and capital homestead in a fine agricultural district.
☞ Mr. Mort begs to call the attention of capitalists to this important sale of country and suburban properties.
Plans on view at the rooms.
Terms at sale. 81

DEEP WATERSIDE FRONTAGE, JOHNSTONE'S BAY, BALMAIN.
DAY OF SALE, FRIDAY, 21st October.

MR. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY the 21st October, at 11 o'clock,
A VALUABLE ALLOTMENT OF LAND, situate in Johnstone's Bay, Balmain, directly below the Roman Catholic Church.
LOTS 1 AND 3,
with a frontage to the water of 57 feet each, by depths of 127 feet and 147 feet respectively.
LOT 2,
directly in the rear of No. 1, with a frontage of 50 to Donnelly-street, by a depth of 110 feet, along which there is a reserved road, 14 feet wide.
LOT 4,
in the rear of No. 3, and similar in size to allotment No. 2, with road frontages.
Mr. Mort begs to call attention to the fact of this being the only waterside frontage in Balmain, in Johnstone's Bay, now open for sale; and as the township is rapidly extending in a westerly direction, there can be no doubt but that before many months the Balmain steamers will ply to this locality as a more central position for the convenience of passengers.
The improvements so rapidly progressing in Waterview Bay, in connection with Captain Rowntree's Patent Heaving-up Slip, will give a very important value to all lands in the vicinity, and property like this, now offered for sale, with deep water frontage, is just the very spot for a ferry, as it will be in the centre of the township, and in a direct line with the Sydney wharves.
The water in front of Nos. 1 and 3, is sufficiently deep to admit of a wharf being formed without any submarine structure.
Plan on view at the rooms.
Terms at sale. 1222

THE ROYAL HOTEL, AUBURN-STREET GOULBURN.
Day of Sale, WEDNESDAY, 26th October.

MR. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on WEDNESDAY, the 26th of October, at 12 o'clock precisely,
THE ROYAL HOTEL, Auburn-street, Goulburn, standing upon one acre of ground, and situate about the centre of Auburn-street, with a frontage of 132 feet by a depth of 330 feet.
This splendid edifice is most substantially built of brick, the outside and centre walls of 18 inch work, the ground floor walls of 14 inches, and the upper floor partition walls of 9 inch work. The front and end walls are stuccoed on the outside, and the back wall is neatly pointed with gauged arches.
The Hotel contains in the basement extensive and convenient cellars beneath the bar and back parlour, the walls of which are of stone 2 feet thick, and the accommodation is most complete, comprising as follows:
On the ground floor—entrance hall with commodious cedar staircase, front and back parlour, bar, tap-room, three bed rooms and pantry.
On the first floor—three large parlours, two of which open into each other, with large folding doors, forming a splendid dining room 36 feet by 17 feet; also hall and passage, the latter running along the whole building, and affording access into five bed rooms.
The parlours in the upper floor are all fitted with French lights, and connected with a balcony running along the front of the building, secured with neat scroll castiron baluisters, and supported on castiron cantelevers.
The whole of the cedar work throughout the Hotel is equal to Spanish mahogany, and finished in a superior style—panelled and varnished. The rooms throughout are 12 feet high; and the parlour, bar, hall, lobby, and staircase oil painted, and finished with cornices and centres; and the principal rooms throughout fitted with register stoves.
The staircase, of cedar, is a rare piece of workmanship, beautifully finished.
In the rear of the Hotel is a weatherboard and covered passage, leading to the KITCHEN and LAUNDRY, both brick-built, in a most substantial manner; and over which is a large BILLIARD ROOM, 36 feet 6 by 20 feet 6, and 14 feet high, with splendid cornice and centres in stucco. The walls and ceiling are oil painted, and the cedar work and fittings of a character with that in the Hotel. In the rear of the kitchen is a BAKEHOUSE, with first-rate oven, and a Shed.
Opposite the end of the Billiard Room is a range of Brick Buildings, with 14 inch walls, comprising Entrance Passage, NURSERY and BEDROOM, each 20 feet by 11 feet 6; at the end of which is a Fowl-house and Water-closet. The whole of these Buildings, as well as the Kitchen and Billiard Room, are stuccoed on the outside, and well finished in every respect.
Parallel with the Hotel, in the rear of the Yard, is a MAGNIFICENT RANGE OF STABLING, 115 feet long by 18 feet 6 wide, containing 13 stalls, extensive Coach-house and Saddle Room; and in the Upper Story LARGE and COMMODIOUS HAYLOFT and CORN ROOM.
This range is of brick, neatly painted and finished throughout, with blocking course and raised centre, and ornamental cornice; and the whole of the interior fittings are of a superior character.
The premises are entered upon on either side by folding gates, flanked by dwarf walls and neat paling.
In the rear of the allotment is a beautiful garden, well laid out and stocked with choice fruit trees.
Mr. Mort begs to call the attention of capitalists to this important property now offered for sale in one of the most thriving townships in the colony, situated on the high road to the southern gold fields. Goulburn has for a long period been the depôt from whence the digging population have obtained their supplies, and it is famous for its magnificent buildings, and especially the hotels, which are not equalled by any in the metropolis. Conspicuous amongst the whole stands the Royal Hotel, the one invariably patronized by the gentlemen of the bar during circuit, and always remarkable for its gorgeous fittings and splendid accommodations.
On the 9th of September instant, land was sold with frontage to Auburn-street as high as £26 per foot to parties on the spot, who could well appreciate the growing importance of their beautiful township, which is rapidly extending in every direction.
Independent of the large block of land, one acre in the centre of the township, the immense pile of buildings and the good-will of so fine and well known an establishment, the climate of Goulburn must not be overlooked, approximating the mild winter of England, and adapted to the cultivation of English fruits, the whole combined offering advantages rarely to be met with, and at a period too when the colony is just attracting the attention of the whole world, and taking a most prominent position among nations.
A plan on view on the rooms of the auctioneer, at Sydney; and at the office of Messrs. Woolley and Robinson, De Graves' Bonded Stores, Melbourne.
 Terms:—One half of the purchase money may remain on mortgage for three, five, or seven years, at the option of the purchaser, at a moderate interest. 12050

WINDMILL-STREET.
TWO-STORY HOUSE.
Day of sale, Friday, October 28.

MR. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, October 28th, at 11 o'clock,
A capital two-story House, situated in Windmill-street, next door to the "Hero of Waterloo" public house, and having a back entrance from Fort-street The house contains extensive cellars, four rooms on the ground floor, with flagged and enclosed verandah, and four rooms on the first floor, small yard in the rear, containing weatherboard kitchen and outoffices. Water laid on.
This house is in capital order, and fitted with new rain spouts and down piping. It is well situated, and suitable for the residence of a respectable family.
Terms at sale. 2502

RAYMOND TERRACE, HUNTER RIVER.
590 ACRE FARM.
2 TOWN ALLOTMENTS.
Day of Sale—FRIDAY, 21st October.

MR. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 21st October, at 11 o'clock,
The following properties—
Lot 1.
The Estate of Woodlands, containing 590 acres, situate in the county of Gloucester, about 12 miles from Raymond Terrace, on the high road to Tanilba, on the south shore of the Harbour of Port Stephens. This property is partly fenced in, and has a large Stock-yard and cleared Paddock, which has been cultivated; it formed a portion of the property of the late Richard Windeyer, Esq., and was used by that gentleman as a Cattle and Stud Station. There is an extensive tract of Government land attached to it, and on the estate is a large quantity of timber adapted for building purposes, and soil fit for wheat.
Lot 2.
HALF AN ACRE of Land in the TOWNSHIP of RAYMOND TERRACE, being Allotment No. 3 of Section 9, having a frontage of 66 feet to Sturgeon-street by a depth of 330 to Adelaide-street, to which it has a frontage of 66 feet also; formerly the property of Andrew Donovan.
Lot 3.
HALF AN ACRE of Land in the TOWNSHIP of RAYMOND TERRACE, being Allotment 4 of Section 9, and having frontages the same as Lot 2; also formerly the property of Andrew Donovan.
 These allotments are well situated for building sites, being elevated sufficiently to escape inundation and to avoid dampness. Raymond Terrace is the key of a large tract of country, and the steamer passes almost daily from Morpeth to Sydney, and parties desirous of coming upon business can be at Sydney within twelve hours after leaving home. In the neighbourhood are several farms, orangeries, and vineyards.
Terms at sale. 354

PADDINGTON,
STONE-BUILT HOUSE.
DAY OF SALE, WEDNESDAY, the 26th October.

MR. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on WEDNESDAY, the 26th October, at 11 o'clock,
A CAPITAL STONE-BUILT HOUSE, situated in Underwood-street, Paddington, with a frontage thereto of 25 feet by a depth of 195 feet to Caledonia-street. This house is built in the Gothic style, with a front of cut stones, and squared stone work in other parts; it contains six rooms, four on the ground floor, and two on the first floor; there is a verandah in front, and the whole is neatly finished with venetian shutters to the front windows below.
There is a plot of ground in the front with extensive yard in the rear, having a back and a side entrance, and in the yard there is a DETACHED WASH-HOUSE and a TWO-STALL STABLE.
 This is a capital dwelling-house, in a good locality and respectable neighbourhood, adjoining the residence of Mr. S. Hebblewhite; the view from the up-stairs rooms is beautiful, commanding the Harbour and Lighthouse on one side, and the waters of Botany on the other. The house is at present occupied by the proprietor, who will give immediate possession, and if let it would command a rental of 40s. per week.
A plan is in course of preparation.
Terms at sale. 1609

1,000 SHEEP, WITH SPLENDID STATION, AT WELLINGTON.
Day of sale, Tuesday, November 1st.

MR. MORT has received instructions from the proprietors, in consequence of their projected departure from the colony, to offer for imperative sale, on TUESDAY, the 1st of November next, at 12 o'clock precisely, the following valuable Sheep:—
2500 ewes, selected to fatten
950 ditto, 5 years old
940 ditto, 4 years old
950 ditto, 3 years old
2600 ditto, 2 years old
1800 ditto, 1 year old
2350 ewe hoggets
4300 wethers, 2 to 4 years old
2 00 wethers, 1 year old
2200 wether hoggets
453 rams
21,040 more or less
And the lambs, from 6000 to 7000 ewes, will be given in, a large proportion of which are from fine picked maiden sheep.
70 of the rams were selected this season from Mr. Finch's best sheep, and the remainder from Mr. E. Cox's and Colonel Verner's flocks. Every ewe put to the ram was carefully selected.
The sheep are warranted sound and never to have been diseased. They cut last season 2lb. 10ozs. of clean spout washed wool of very high character: and the wool can always be got up in first-rate style, the water being peculiarly soft, and every facility for spout washing, thereby saving an immense amount of labour.
Together with the following stations, which are first-rate, so well known as BRYMADURA with GARA and MANILDRA, comprising about 400 square miles of thickly grassed and well watered country, situated in the Boree district, Wellington.
Delivery will be given on the 1st December, by which time the shearing will be finished; the wool will be delivered to the order of the purchaser on paying shearing expenses and carriage, the latter of which will be from 9s. to 11s. per 112lbs.
The IMPROVEMENTS consist as follows:—On the head station, which is distant ten miles from the Police and Post Offices of Molong, and 180 miles from Sydney, are erected
A comfortable new dwelling house, shingled
Overseer's cottage, kitchen
Large stores, stables
Cart shed, men's huts, &c.
Drafting yards, stockyard and a large new WOOLSHED, just completed. There is also a large paddock just fenced in. The huts and fencing are nearly all new, having been renewed this year. There are also a large number of hurdles.
With the Brymadura Station, the right of brand to about 150 head of cattle will be given in.
The stations are in the neighbourhood of the runs of Messrs. Boulton Brothers, E. Barton, Esq., and Dr. Richardson; and only twenty-five miles distant from two steam-mills. And with reference to the adaptation of the district for sheep farming, it is worthy of remark that neither catarrh, scab, nor foot-rot is known in the Wellington district. The runs are on a lease for fourteen years.
The following goods are upon the station, which are to be taken at a valuation:—
A screw woolpress
Horses and drays
Bullocks and gear
A quantity of supplies
And household furniture.
A plan of the runs, which, without exception, are the largest and finest in the Wellington district, can be seen at the rooms of the auctioneer. TERMS.
One fourth cash, one-fourth six months, residue at twelve months. The credit to be by approved bills, with security, and bearing interest at six per cent.
☞ This unrivalled pastoral concern is worthy of all attention. Its situation is about the very best of any in the colony, because it commands the southern markets as well as those of Sydney and the western gold fields. The sheep are of a quality than which better could not be desired, and all in prime order. The qualities of the runs are most fattening, some of the heaviest wethers sent to the Sydney market having come from these runs. They are abundantly watered, and the improvements are not only extensive, but of superior description—the house fit for a respectable family. The locality is excellent—the post town convenient—and, in a word, the property is really a first-class one in every respect. 1207

SAWYERS.—Wanted a pair of Sawyers to proceed to the Clarence River. Apply to T. BUCKLAND, Waterloo Warehouse, 275, George-street. 2791

MR. ALBEMARLE LAYARD begs to inform his friends and the public that from the experience he has had for the last twelve months in the value of property, he can fearlessly state without fear of contradiction, that persons desirous of selling or letting houses or land cannot do better than apply at his office, Pitt-street South, between the hours of 9 and 11 o'clock, and 1 to 3 P.M. A. L. begs further to state that, although he does not advertise the sales effected, he flatters himself that some of the very best properties in Sydney have passed through his hands, and better and larger prices given by private sale than could be got by public auction. 2691

TO YOUNG MARRIED LADIES.
Six Houses for Sale.

MR. ALBEMARLE LAYARD is instructed to sell six capital Houses, situated near the water, together or separate. To parties with a small capital, anxious to have a home of their own, this is an unrivalled opportunity. Ladies recently married would do well to impress upon their husbands the real necessity of procuring, and that quickly, a good residence; as it requires very little foresight to be alive to the fearful rents that will soon be expected.
34, Pitt-street South. 2890

TO Grocers, Drapers, and Tailors.—To be sold the four years' Lease of a first-rate shop and premises, situated in the centre of Pitt-street; possession can be given immediately. Rent, moderate. Apply to R. P. WHITEHOUSE, 13, Bridge-street. 2809
